"As the saying goes, ‘This is the devil’s playground’ as youth organizations like the Salesian Boys & Girls Club and the East Boston YMCA have come up with exciting and new programs year after year to target at-risk youth who would otherwise slip through the cracks and end up on the streets during the summer months. To keep kids busy and active, the Salesian Boys & Girls Club and the YMCA have joined forces to launch a new Friday night program, "Summer Teen Nights" at the Boys & Girls Club on Bytown Street.

The teen nights will be each Friday night from 6 to 9 p.m. at the Club through August 16. The evening of activities include basketball games, cornhole, wiffle ball, BBQs and more.

"We are proud to work with East Boston YMCAs and offer such a fun program for teens," said Salesian Executive Director Michael Triant. "Teenagers are an audience that we are always trying to keep engaged and provide more services for. These Friday night events will help showcase our commitment to all teens, which will hopefully carry into the school year. Like Joe said the responsibility of providing quality services to young people is something that we all work together to accomplish.”

The first teen night kicked off last Friday night with great success according to YMCA Executive Director for Girls, "Were excited to partner with the Salesian to give teens a place to be safe on Friday nights," said Guz. "Eastie shines bright when we pull together to leverage our resources and increase our service to kids and families.”

Simmons said that the suspect is described as a white male driving a dark-colored pick-up truck.

Serena Gilbride pitched a shutout in the final game – and the biggest game – of her high school softball career, leading Austin Prep to a 3-0 victory over Turner-Fairbank Park on the campus of Worcester State University.

It was her first-ever state softball championship, and it was Serena completing her final game – and the biggest game – of her high school career. Serena was named Most Valuable Player.

"First and foremost, I’m grateful that the EMT who was violently attacked is recovering today; my thoughts and those of my Office are with her and her family. I also want to thank her fellow first responders, whose brave and selfless actions likely saved her colleague’s life, even as he was assualting himself and District Attorney Rollins. The work that both EMTs did was extraordinary in courage, but utterly ordinary for first responders, who put their safety on the line every day that they put on their uniform and go to work. We owe them our profound appreciation. I want the victims and their departed to know that they have the full support of my Office as the case moves forward, and we are committed to achieving accountability on their behalf,” District Attorney Rollins said.

and her teammates, including friend Alexandria Samisefal- a, who made softball history for the college preparatory school in Reading.

Beginning in youth softball on East Boston fields

This softball success story begins when Serena was a young player joining her friends in the junior division of the popular East Boston Girls Softball League. Serena said she was inspired by her older sister, Deirdre 'Dr. Gilbide'.

At the age of nine, Serena made her debut as a pitcher for Boston Waves, whose head coach was her father, David. She pitched not only on the mound, but at the plate and field positions at an impressive level of competition. Serena made a mark on the small-city baseball club teams such as the Academ- y, Rapid Fire, Lady Bombers and Norasters, always facing the best competition in New England.

Now at the age of 18, the young Gilbide was making inroads pitching lessons from Bob MacDonald of Boston College, his stepfather, and Noreasters, always facing the best competition in New England.

Working toward an oppor- tunity at the college level

Serena enrolled at Aus- tin Prep in the seventh grade and earned a spot on the Je- nifer Van Vleuten's varsity team where she pitched well for three seasons as the team's top pitcher.

Provided to the varsity as a sophomore, Serena played well and showcased her skills. The Prep had advanced to the state semifinals in 2017 and 2018 (losing in the state final in 2016 and prevailing in the state championship in 2018) and entered the state final in 2018 (losing to East Boston Prep) and earned a spot on the junior leadership.

Serena has a natural gift for pitching, but she didn't want to be the best – she wanted to improve. She worked hard and was rewarded with a senior year for the ages, said Dr. Gilbide.

Serena delivered clutch performances in the clutch moments that the Eagles, who were challenged by their Catholic Central Confer- ence opponents.

But this spring, Serena and her teammates were not going to be denied. Led by Serena's pitching and sacrifice, the Prep had a dramatic 2-1 victory over St. Mary's Prep in the North-South final.

A proud father's reflections

Dr. Robert Gilbide should probably write a book about team-building and coaching youth sports.

The memories of his daugh- ter taking the field for the first time in Eastie are vivid, her dedication to wanting to improve and grow as a softball player through private pitch- ing lessons is a family decision that was rewarded in the end.

She would go early Sunday mornings to take the pitching lessons, recalled Dr. Gilbide. “We would drive up to Woburn, winter, rain or shine, and she learned curve- balls, drop, change-ups and even a fastball. She was a really good pitcher at her age. She was good at what she did. She was a pitch- er to contact.”

“Without him, I wouldn’t be the player I am today or the state champion Prep has today,” said Serena. “Getting up early every Sun- day morning and going to private lessons was the best thing that made me the player I am today.”

There were also the fa- ther-daughter conversations about softball practices and planning strategy, along with the trips to the field for indi- vidual practices with her younger brother, Robert (a pitcher at Austin Prep).

Nancy Gilbide also gets the credit for molding the softball star.

“She taught me from day one, the first day I sat down with her and talked about what I should do with the ball. She taught me how to pitch,” said Serena.

“I feel like I get my inde- pendence and traits like that from my mother, who is a strong woman,” said Serena. “I think from both my parents, I get my self-driven attitude and strong mentality, which I think is important as a pitcher in this sport. I have it and I try to set a good example for my brother.”

An excellent student, Ser- ena will be attending Sacred Heart University in Connecticut.

THURSDAY, AUGUST 15TH.
Dear Editor,

We all know the dangers of driving drunk, and the dangers of drinking in general. However, we should not lose sight of the fact that alcohol abuse still rates as the number one health problem in the country, as it has for decades.

For example, a recent study found that nearly 40% of all deaths among working-age adults. The cost in 2010 was almost $200 billion. And drinking is a serious problem among adolescents. More than nine percent of those 12 to 17 years drink alcohol, and almost five percent engaged in binge drinking in the last month. Drinking as a teen makes a person five times more likely to become an alcoholic than if they had waited to take their first drink after the age of 21.

For men, risky drinking is more than four drinks on any day or more than 14 drinks in any week, according to the National Institute for Alcohol Abuse. And for women, it's more than three drinks on any day or more than seven drinks in any week. (The institute defines a drink as 12 ounces of beer, 5 ounces of wine, or 1.5 ounces of spirits."

According to the American Medical Association, the nation faces an increasing problem of binge drinking, defined as consuming five or more drinks in a row for men and four or more drinks in a row for women. Binge drinking is more common among young adults and is a major health issue in the United States."

As a result, the medical community is calling for stricter laws and better education about the dangers of alcohol abuse. For example, a recent study found that states with stronger laws and better education programs had lower rates of alcohol-related deaths."

In conclusion, alcohol abuse is a serious problem that affects millions of people in the United States. We must take action to address this issue and protect ourselves and our communities from the harmful consequences of alcohol abuse.

Sincerely,

[Your Name]

JEFFRIES POINT NEIGHBORHOOD ASSOCIATION

STEPPING UP

On Monday evening, July 8, the Jeffries Point Neighborhood Association held their summer potluck at Golden Stair Terrace Park in East Boston. Neighbors from the Jeffries Point section of East Boston are invited to join the association, contribute food, and enjoy the food, the friendship of their neighbors, and the beautiful evening. Tradition has it that the port of embarkation for many of the emigrants arriving in Boston was on the East Boston waterfront, they climbed the stairs, and many of them settled in East Boston.

March in 1881 to Saint John, New Brunswick, Canada. He immigrated with his father and siblings to Greater Boston at the end of the 19th Century. His father Daniel A. Downing sought his fortune in the molasses business.

Ultimately, the family made Eastie their home where Downing then enlisted into the United States Army. Downing served as Private First Class with the 26th Division and the 10th Infantry Regiment. Alongside the French Army, the 10th Infantry Regiment made a raid into German lines on Feb. 23, 1918 marking this the first time an American unit had launched a raid in the war. Downing passed away from his wounds he sustained in combat on July 11, 1918, in Chateau-Thierry, Aisne, Picardy, France.

For the honor displayed in his service to our country, Albert was awarded the World War I Victory Medal and is memorialized at Aisne-Marne American Cemetery in Bellicourt, France.

Downing’s great-great-nephew Ben Downing, who served as a State Senator from Pittsfield before moving to Eastie with his wife and son three years ago, said he was honored by the tribute to his family members.

“I’m honored to stand here and speak on behalf of my entire family,” said Ben. “I want to thank my Uncle Joe Downing who took the time to dig into the history of our family’s service to our country and help to organize this event. It is important to pay tribute to the young men and women who have served our country and provided us with the freedoms we enjoy today.”

Ben Downing said his great-great-uncle’s story is actually an immigrant story. “Many immigrants brought their talents and blessing to this country and as you look at all of this country gave to them and immediately wanted to give back and that should not be forgotten,” he said. “Their generation immigrants have come here and have made our country stronger. I want to thank the Mayor and the city for continuing to recognize the sacrifice that was made by thousands of families over the years.”

Downing’s great-nephew Joe Downing added that his great-uncle’s story is “very much a Boston story”.

“My family has stayed in Boston in various ways for almost 130 years,” he said. “My parents graduated from East Boston High School in 1935. Ms. East has remained a home and center of gravity for our family. I have to pay a great compliment to the Mayor who has recognized what is best about this city and the parts of the past that need to be preserved and today we are paying tribute to Albert Henry Downing’s family and the beneficiaries of that.”

In 1898, the first Hero Square in Boston was named Dewey Square at South Station. Since then, the city has dedicated more than 1,300 Hero Squares for service members killed in action. The gold star on each sign represents the ultimate sacrifice that was given. It is designated only for those killed in action.

In 2013, the city created and added biography plaques at each Hero Square. These plaques have a barcode you can scan that takes you to a website with more details and photos about the service member.

“Hero Squares allow us to pay tribute and honor to our fallen service members in a very visible and permanent way,” said the City’s Veterans Commissioner Robert Santiago. “The Hero Square program is very meaningful to the family and friends of a fallen soldier as well as the community they lived in. Once we unveil Private Downing Square you will notice the Gold Star. The Downing family has been a gold star family since July 11, 1918. I’m sure Private Downing did not want to die but he was willing to make this great sacrifice for the freedoms we all enjoy today.”

City’s Veterans Commissioner Robert Santiago joins Ben and Joe Downing to unveil the plaque that bears Albert Henry Downing’s biography.

Members of the Downing family gather on the corner of Cottage and Sumner Street that now pays tribute to Albert Henry Downing who died in World War I.
