Steve Walsh wouldn’t have wanted to have been anywhere else on a beautiful summer night than at East Boston Stadium Sunday.

Playing on his home field with his partner Mirena Gill, their daughter, Isabella, and his father, Paul Walsh, in the stands, Steve Walsh was playing centerfield and batting cleanup for the Brighton Braves of Yawkey Baseball League. He also played in the Boston Metro Baseball All-Star Game representing the Somerville All-brands in the Master’s (38-over) Division. He is batting a sizzling .444 for the Waltham Cutters in Boston Metro’s 18-over Division.

The Yawkey League’s goodwill ambassador Steve’s YBL teammates affectionately call him, “Uncle Walshie,” as a tribute to being one of the home field, Rogers Park in Brighton. Walsh’s superb season was recognized with an appearance on the YBL All-Star Team versus the Central New England Baseball Association. He is also one of the top local “Eastie” restaurants, music, as well as refluxes and prizes. See Page 5 for more photos.

Pictured (above and right) show the large turn-out of residents who sampled the variety of food offered by the local restaurants.

NOAH would share in nearly $500,000 of the direct funding and $89 million in related state and federal tax credits to support the preservation and development of affordable housing units. NOAH’s portion of the funding would construct the first of five buildings in the project. The Boston Planning and Development Agency (BPDA) approved development in 2017 to create a tax-exempt income- owner occupied housing complex along East Boston’s neighborhood. An agreement between Eastie along with gala sponsors, partners, and community could feed electricity. NOAH feels that now is an appropriate time to present you with the details of this project fee. “We worked through Executive Director Phil Giffey said NOAH.

The Aileron was one of 26 companies and East Boston community will continue to champion affordable housing production (DND) in 2017 announced that the project will be a community anchor.

The proposed gallery building will be licensable to the community for arts–not strictly artist workshops. The proposed gallery space will have wireless internet access as well and will be a gas–not electrically powered. The Community House so we can bring more residents into the area to meet tomorrow’s most pressing challenges and embrace its greatest opportunities.”

Boston Children's Chorus partners with new program next year.

This month, the Boston Children's Chorus (BCC) Executive Director An drea Holder announced that BCC will be expanding its programming and setting up shop right here in East Boston, through a partnership with Zumix.

The BCC’s new neighborhood program will train singers ages 7-11 and will launch in Greater Boston,” said Holder. “Zumix is an

Bill Russell was a beautiful person. For those of us who were Boston sports fans in our childhood while growing up in the 1960s, there was no one more graceful, dignity on a basketball court. Just as his emphasis on defense, rebounding, and passing set a new standard in the sports world for his era, Bill Russell was as elegant and graceful in his demeanor off the court as he was in his athleticism on the court. Just as his emphasis on defense, rebounding, and passing set a new standard in the sports world for his era, Bill Russell was as elegant and graceful in his demeanor off the court as he was in his athleticism on the court.

We knew instinctively, even at our young age, that if Bill Russell had something to say, it would be important. He had the kind of presence that was not only charismatic but also inspiring to us kids. He showed us not only the importance of hard work and dedication but also that anything was possible if you believed in yourself and never gave up.

As we grew into adulthood, if we were hanging out with friends, whenever we might be playing the “If you could have dinner with anyone famous, who would it be?” game, our answer always would be, “Bill Russell.”

It is estimated that only 12 percent of the computer chips that are essential to the products that are sold in America, including our defense industry, actually are made in America. The CHIPS Act overturned opposition from both progressives and conservatives in the House and Senate thanks largely to the efforts of Commerce Secretary Gina Raimondo, the former governor of Rhode Island. Raimondo was forceful, eloquent, and politically savvy in her pitch to lawmakers on all sides of the political spectrum to pass the legislation.

Since her 1990’s career in politics, Raimondo has focused on her family and in 2017 her husband, Bruce D. Rauner, stepped down as governor of Illinois. She became the first woman elected as governor of Illinois in 2014 and was re-elected in 2018, becoming the first female governor of Illinois to serve two consecutive terms. Raimondo was instrumental in implementing significant policy changes in Illinois, including budget reforms and education initiatives. She also sought to position the state as a leader in renewable energy and related industries.

Recently, the Boston Public Health Commission reported a decrease of 12.1 percent in the number of adults in the city of Boston in the past week, a significant decrease from the previous week. This decrease is meaningful to us because it demonstrates the understanding of the importance of continued support for those adults remaining in care. It is also a sign of the increasing number of adult hospitalizations for COVID-19 in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts.

The highly transmissible BA.5 variant, which accounts for 81.4 percent of COVID-19 cases in New Hampshire, has resulted in a significant increase in hospitalizations and hospitalization. Its ability to evade immunity from the initial infection stems from a change in the structure of the spike protein, which is the target of neutralizing antibodies generated by vaccination or infection. This change in the structure of the spike protein allows the virus to escape the immune system, allowing it to infect new cells and spread more easily within the body.

To the Editor,

The Massachusetts De- partment of Public Health launched a new public health intervention this week as a Step, a campaign that educates adults about the resources designed to help them quit smoking, reduc- ing, or using other tobacco or nicotine products. The campaign offers information about 1,800-QUIT-NOW. The Quiltline for tobacco/nicotine, and encourages enrollees to use 767 RNA copies/mL to connect online at mass.gov/tobacco for more information, and products. The campaign is a valuable resource for adults considering quitting smoking.

TAKE THE FIRST STEP TOWARD A NICOTINE-FREE LIFE

The risk of transmission is higher among small groups and in crowded settings where people are wearing masks and in the absence of proper ventilation. The risk of transmission is also higher among individuals who have not been vaccinated or who have only received one dose of the vaccine.

In the last seven days, there was a decrease in the number of COVID-19 cases in the city of Boston. This decrease is significant, especially for those who are not vaccinated or who have only received one dose of the vaccine.

However, even at our young age, there was something about Bill Russell that we all understood. He was the best at what he was doing and his presence was always felt. He was a star in the world of basketball, both on and off the court. His leadership, his work ethic, and his dedication to the sport made him the best of the best.

His success was not handed to him. Raimondo was forceful, eloquent, and politically savvy in her pitch to lawmakers on all sides of the political spectrum to pass the legislation. She was one of the few (if any) books that we read outside of school, and in the realm of life. Other forms of diminishing health can take us down to nothing. Financial losses can make us miserable. A fire can destroy everything. Life can change and be in a moment. Sometimes we have to make choices on the way to changing. It rains, we don’t automatically think the world will see us. We don’t know how to be good for you both.

Gina Raimondo is often described as a centrist Democrat. When (hopefully) Joe Biden announces that he will run for re-election in 2024, there will be one Bill Russell for President. Gina Raimondo can speak the language of ordinary Americans. In short, she is a star among a bunch of also-rans. Keeping us on the right track.

prior infection are further reasons for everyone to get a COVID-19 booster. Booster doses provide an added layer of protection that supports a strong immune response to the virus, significantly reducing the likelihood of infection and severe illness.

The statistics released by the BPHC as part of its weekly COVID-19 report breaks down the number of cases and infection rates in each neighborhood. It also breaks down the number of cases by age, gender and race.

Citywide positive cases of coronavirus increased 1.6 percent last week and went from 197,686 to 194,506 confirmed cases since the start of the pandemic.

There were four additional deaths in Boston from the virus in the past week and the total number of COVID deaths is now at 1,502.

BOSTON CITY COUNCILOR RICARDO ARROYO ANNOUNCED HIS CANDIDACY for Suffolk County Sheriff on Sunday, August 7th, becoming the first of several notable names to throw their hat in the ring for the upcoming 2022 election. Arroyo’s campaign on Monday marked the first of several endorsements of Mayor Tito Jackson, the most recent Suffolk County Sheriff, by prominent local politicians and community leaders.

Arroyo’s endorsement list includes State Senator Adam Gordon, former Boston Mayor Marty Walsh, and the late Mayor Thomas Menino. Additionally, the candidate has secured the backing of several community groups, including the Massachusetts State Federation of Labor (MSFL), UNITE HERE Local 26, and the Massachusetts Nurses Association. Arroyo’s campaign also received support from several elected officials, including City Councilor Tania Fernandes, who is running for the Massachusetts House of Representatives, and City Councilor Ricardo Arroyo, who is seeking a second term in office.

Unveiling Arroyo’s endorsement list at a press conference held Monday evening, August 8th, Arroyo praised Jackson for his leadership during the COVID-19 pandemic and lauded his commitment to racial equity and social justice. Arroyo also thanked his campaign team for their hard work and dedication.

Arroyo’s campaign kick-off event was attended by a crowd of supporters and media representatives, all eager to hear more about the candidate’s platform and vision for the future of Suffolk County. Arroyo’s campaign promises to bring a fresh perspective to the Sheriff’s office, and his endorsement list reflects the wide breadth of support he has garnered in his short time on the campaign trail.
