Suspect in custody after warrant leads to the recovery of loaded firearm and drugs

By John Lynds

Officers assigned to the District B-3 Mattapan Drug Control Unit made a drug bust in Eastie.

According to police a little after 7 p.m. on Thursday, June 27, officers arrested Carlique President, 32, of Mattapan, on firearm and drug-related charges in the area of 290 William McClellan Highway in Eastie.

The officers applied for and were granted a search warrant for the suspect in Dorchester District Court as part of an ongoing drug distribution investigation.

The officers observed the suspect as he was operating a motor vehicle, at which time they performed a traffic stop. The officers then secured the suspect and conducted their search, which led to the recovery of a loaded .45 caliber Ruger SR45 handgun, as well as several small bags of crack

Special to the Times-Free Press

Last week Sen. Joseph Boncore and the Massachusetts Senate passed An Act Relative to Collective Bargaining Dues.

The bill helps protect a public unions' ability to effectively represent all workers in labor agreements following the U.S. Supreme Court ruling in the case Janus v. AFSCME.

"Today's vote, which comes exactly one year after the misguided Janus ruling by the U.S. Supreme Court, makes clear that the Senate will always put working families of Massachusetts first,"

Social Centers to get new windows through grant

Last week Mayor Martin Walsh announced that the East Boston Social Centers and 17 other nonprofit organizations across the city would share in $550,500 in grant funding through the City's Partners with Nonprofits Program (PNP).

The funding will allow the Social Centers and others to make public facility upgrades and on-site physical improvements, and will help them leverage more than $1.7 million in capital improvements.

"I am proud that the Partners with Non-Profits program invests directly in organizations that offer so much to the people of Boston," said Mayor Walsh. "The commitment of the community service organizations receiving these grants is what helps make our city so strong. This program is an important tool we use to ensure that these organizations are able to continue their work that benefits our neighborhoods and our residents."

Executive Director of the Social Centers Justin Pasquariello said his agency would be using the funding to remove and replace windows at the Central Square location.

"The City of Boston's Partners with Nonprofits program continues to provide critically needed funds for maintenance of our facilities, and we are deeply grateful to Mayor Walsh, Chief Dillon, and all who have made this possible," said Pasquariello. "This investment in window replacement will help us prevent water damage to our building and will improve our building's energy efficiency--enabling us to continue to provide highest quality services to the nearly 600 people we impact on a typical day."

Since 2014, the Partners with Nonprofits program, operated by the City's Department of Neighborhood Development (DND), has awarded more than $2.8 million in grants to neighborhood non-profits.

The program provides funding of up to $40,000 for capital improvements, such as handicap accessibil-

Woods appointed Commissioner of Boston Parks and Recreation

J. Walsh appointed Ryan T. Woods as the Commissioner of Boston Parks and Recreation.

Woods, a veteran of the department, has served in the department since 2007, and will continue his service as the new leader for the department.

"Boston is a great parks city, and Ryan brings a wealth of internal and external experience to the role of Parks Commissioner," said Mayor Walsh. "I am confident he is the right person to build on the department's mission of access, equity, and excellence, and look forward to his continuing leadership.'

As Commissioner, Woods will oversee more than 2,600 acres of neighborhood parks, playgrounds, tot lots, athletic facilities, city squares and urban wilds, as well as the City of Boston's inventory of public street trees. The Department also has jurisdiction over three active cemeteries, 16 historic burying grounds and two golf courses.

"I am very grateful for this opportunity to contin-

Last week Mayor Martin ue to work with the men and women of the Boston Parks and Recreation Department to create fun, safe and well maintained open spaces for Boston's residents and visitors to enjoy," said Woods.

During his tenure with the Boston Parks and Recreation department, Woods has held roles as the Public-Private Coordinator, Partnerships Program Manager, and Director of External Affairs. Recently, Woods served as Deputy Commissioner where he oversaw more than 800 free annual programs for residents, department communications, and parks operations.

A graduate of St. Michael's College, Woods also holds a Master's Degree in Public Administration from Suffolk University. He is a lifelong resident of Dorchester, where he lives with his wife Lauren, a Boston Police officer, and their two boys.

The former Parks Commissioner, Christopher Cook, was elevated last year to Chief of said Senate President Karen E. Spilka (D-Ashland). "Public workers are the backbone of our economy and deserve the ability to fight for fair wages, access affordable health care and work in safe conditions. I look forward to seeing this legislation become law."

In its 5-4 ruling, the U.S. Supreme Court weakened the ability of public sector unions to advocate for workers both members and non-members — in contractual and collective bargaining activities. The decision significantly limited a union's authority to charge fees of non-members, potentially cutting off critical resources used in the effort to fairly represent all workers at the negotiating table.

"The Constitutional right to organize and collectively bargain is a basic tenant of our democracy. Last year, conservative activists on the Supreme Court curbed this right in the Janus decision," said Transportation Committee Chair Sen. Joseph Boncore (D-Winthrop), who sponsored a version of the legislation last session. "Today, the Senate corrected this injustice and took action to ensure workers across the Commonwealth have the ability to fight for a better quality of life for their families.'

An Act Relative to Collective Bargaining Dues would enable public sector unions to charge reasonable fees of non-members for costs related to representation. The decision to charge workers who choose not to pay union dues would be optional and left to the organization's discretion. The legislation would also ensure the union has access to appropriate worker contact information and codifies a union's ability to meet with newly hired employees on worksites.

After enactment by the House and Senate, the legislation moves on to the Governor's desk.

MAKE THE MOST OF SUMMER

Our founding publisher, Andrew P. Quigley, who lived an extraordinary life, used to say, "When you look back on your life, you realize that all you really have is a lot of memories."

What brings these words to mind is the realization that the long, hot summer is upon us. With school out and the excitement of the Fourth of July behind us, we now have arrived at what often are referred to as the dog days of summer -- humid, steamy, and languid -- that have burned indelible memories into our mind's eye from our earliest childhood into adulthood.

For those of us who live in the Greater Boston area, numerous vacation spots, from the mountains and lakes of Maine and New Hampshire, to the pastoral serenity of the Berkshires, to the world-famous beaches of Cape Cod and the islands, are within a short distance.

The Greater Boston area itself is full of summertime pleasures and recreational opportunities, whether it be a visit to the 15 beaches maintained by the state, boating in our beautiful Boston Harbor and nearby environs, concerts at numerous venues, or taking in the vibrancy of the Boston waterfront scene.

However, what summertime always has meant to us -- the time we spend with our families, friends, and children -- reinforces the notion that the best things in life are free.

While life itself is short and passes all too quickly, summer is even briefer. There are just seven weeks from now until Labor Day weekend (how depressing is that?). All of us will lament, "Where did the summer go?" when we return to work and school on the day after Labor Day, Sept. 2.

Let's make sure that when we do so, we can look back on a summer that created memories that will last a lifetime for ourselves and for those whom we love.

CONGRATULATIONS, U.S. WOMEN'S SOCCER

Every now and then the accomplishments of an individual athlete or team will transcend whatever it is that they have achieved in the world of sports. Prime examples include the late Muhammad Ali and the 1980 U.S. Olympic hockey team.

In our view, the incredible run by the U.S. Women's Soccer team during the recent World Cup in France that culminated with Sunday's 2-0 victory over the Netherlands in the championship game is one of those events that made us proud to be Americans far beyond their feat of winning a world title.

Not only did the team prove to be the best in the world on the pitch itself, game-after-game, with thrilling victories over Spain, France, and England in the knockout rounds, but off the field, they were incredible representatives for our nation and women the world over.

Beyond their amazing athleticism, the U.S. women displayed grit, class, and, smarts. Unlike some players on other teams who were a bit "chippy," the American women were strong without resorting to rough behavior and never lost their cool.

Moreover, the U.S. team displayed an unbridled joy for the game that all too often is lacking in sports in these days, all the way from youth to the professional levels.

Jill Ellis, the U.S. coach, noted afterwards that her team members not only were outstanding soccer players, but they also were wonderful people who were superlative teammates and supportive of each other.

With the U.S. women suing U.S. Soccer for equal pay with the men's team, as well as the comments from some members of the team about the politics existent in the country today, the 2019 team's accomplishments on the field may be remembered a generation from now as less significant than the changes they are seeking to bring about in the perception of women athletes by society at large.

We are grateful for the excitement the USNWT brought to us during the past month. We know that their team will serve as an inspiration for future soccer players, both boys and girls, and we are hopeful that they will be able to bring about much-needed changes in the realm of gender equality in the sporting world.

How we're working to ensure the Boston Police Department reflects and serves our neighborhoods

By Mayor Martin J. Walsh

Last month, we welcomed the Boston Police Academy's newest recruits. These men and women had spent the last six months learning to serve and protect the people of Boston with the highest standards of excellence and professionalism. As each recruit crossed the stage, they stopped to shake hands with me and Commissioner Gross. It was a powerful experience meeting each and every new member of our city's police department, which is the oldest-and the best-in the nation.

Among these recruits are veterans, former teachers, and youth sports coaches. Many of them brought their families, friends, and loved ones up on stage with them. It was a powerful reminder of the deep connections our police officers share with our community.

This graduating class also reflects Boston's rich diversity of languages, cultures, backgrounds, and religions. It includes more people of color than any class in recent memory, and the largest group of former cadets to graduate from the academy since we reinstated the cadet program in 2015.

The cadet program is a paid, on-the-job training program for young people in Boston's neighborhoods. It prepares them for the rigors of the Police Academy, and connects a more diverse pool of candidates with local careers in law enforcement.

When I was elected Mayor, I made it a priority to reinstate the cadet program. I saw it as a powerful way to make our police department more representative of the people it serves. In the four years since we brought the cadet program back, the results have spoken for themselves.

Sixty-three percent of cadets have been people of color, representing Boston's Black, Latinx, Asian, and Native American communities. The percentage of female cadets has steadily increased, and the current 2019 cohort of cadets is exactly fifty percent

To see how significant these numbers are, take a look at the national landscape.

Throughout the United States, about 25 percent of police officers are people of color, and about 15 percent are women. The Boston Cadet program is pushing doors wide open for a much more diverse, more inclusive police department in Boston.

A diverse police force is crucial to our public safety strategy. It helps ensure that our men and women in uniform deeply understand the challenges people are facing in our neighborhoods. It also helps build trust between our police and the people they serve, so that residents feel safe coming forward and asking for help.

Our police officers are trusted and familiar faces in our neighborhoods. They are an important part of a support system for our communities—working with public health, social service, and youth work professionals.

This is what community policing looks like, and it has helped make Boston one of the safest cities in America. Our crime rate has fallen by roughly 25 percent over the last five years. This year alone, major crime is down by about 10 percent. Our motto is that we keep Boston safe by "lifting people up, not locking people up.'

Diversifying and strengthening the Boston Police Department is part of a broader, citywide commitment. We're working with the State to create a cadet program for the Boston Fire Department. And through our CityAcademy hiring initiative and improved outreach, we're drawing from a more diverse candidate pool for EMT's and paramedics. This commitment extends beyond public safety and first responders—it's about every part of city government. My cabinet is the most diverse in the history of our city, and nearly half of all full-time city employees hired over the last five years have been people of Together, we'll continue building a culture of trust and resilience across all our neighborhoods, replicating the success of the cadet program, and continuing to push doors wide open for everyone in Boston.

Martin J. Walsh is the Mayor of Boston.

Here are 3 great environmental improvements happening in your neighborhood.

Reducing Emissions

Thanks to sustainability investments such as, 3,900 solar panels at Logan Airport that generate nearly 1 million kWh of clean, renewable energy each year, greenhouse gas emissions have been reduced.

Reducing Energy

Thanks to the construction of more energy efficient buildings – and the installation of LED lighting – energy use is down.

Reducing Traffic

Massport is committed to the promotion of high occupancy vehicle (HOV) transportation – like Logan Express and the MBTA. HOV modes to Logan are increasing with the addition of new Logan Express services, such as the new Back Bay Shuttle and next year, service to North Station.

By reducing energy use and Greenhouse Gas emissions at Logan Airport, as well as decreasing emissions of air quality pollutants from Massport sources, we remain committed to our community and the environment.

Eco-friendly. Eco-focused.

NANTUCKET LIGHTSHIP VIEWING PARTY

THE BEST VIEW IN TOWN

The Nantucket Lightship/ LV-112 is a floating museum in restoration at the Boston Harbor Shipyard and Marina in East Boston. Used in waters too rough for buoys, lightships helped guide vessels through foggy waters. Decommissioned in 1985, it was the largest of the lightships built. It was opened for a viewing party of a more famous historical ship, the USS Constitution, as it made its way from its home in Charlestown through Boston Harbor.

NEWS FROM AROUND THE REGION

FLOOD PROTECTION PROJECT AT ISLAND END RIVER

CHELSEA - Few places in the food supply chain for Greater Boston and beyond are more vulnerable than the New England Produce Center.

That huge food resource for the region, along with other industries, are very close to sea level and, as discovered a few years ago, very prone to flooding and sea level surges.

Now, the City of Chelsea is poised to begin a major project at the Island End River that will help to protect the industrial areas along Beacham Street and enhance the environment around the improving Island End River.

"That area is about 6 or 7 feet above sea level now, and experts expect sea level and storm surges at 14 feet above sea level by the end of the century," said Alex Train, of the Chelsea Planning Department. "This project is in concert with Everett and it's gathered a lot of momentum. It's a priority of the City Manager and our department because we understand how much is at risk. It's a gamble otherwise and we don't like to gamble in the planning industry."

Such a gamble was clearly seen two winters ago when huge coastal surge storms lifted the water levels into the industrial areas along the Island End, nearly causing major disruptions and opening a lot of eyes to the vulnerability of the situation.

The project has been supported by a grant from the Coastal Zone Management Office, as well as the Chelsea and Everett City Councils.

The project includes gray infrastructure, such as flood walls and berms by the Island End River. It also includes green infrastructure with the restoration of the salt marshes abutting the Island End. At the same time, they will also be able to add some amenities for the public like a Boardwalk to connect to the Admiral's Hill Marina area.

"It's going to be a sizeable project, but in the context of the surrounding industrial businesses and the produce center, it's easily a worthwhile initiative on our end," said

Right now, in Chelsea, they are at 60 percent engineering design on the project. Everett is a little bit further behind as they are in the Designated Port Area (DPA) and require many more steps. Everett is currently in a schematic design phase.

On the Chelsea side, Train said they will culminate design this summer, and then look for further grants this winter. Then they will engage in the final engineering, permitting and construction phases.

The project will also be tied into the large Beacham Street roadway, sidewalk and bike path improvements that are also coming soon.

A report in 2015 by the Metropolitan Area Planning Council (MAPC) showed that the Produce Center generates $2.3 billion of economic activity per year, and the entire industrial district generates $7 billion per year. There are 5,000 direct jobs there and 10,000 supportive jobs there.

"Many of that activity and those jobs benefit Chelsea and Everett residents and they are solid middle-class jobs and we're committed to protecting them for our residents," said Train.

OTHER DEVELOPMENT ACTIVITY

•The City has received a PARC grant for rehabilitation of the O'Neil Playground on the hill up from Williams Street. The new design will encourage water features and tree canopies. The restoration will look to prevent heat islands and provide a cool place during the summer. The project is currently under construction and should be substantially completed by the fall. It came in at a cost of $884,000.

•The Eden Street play-ground is currently in design. The new design will also feature a robust tree canopy and more permeable surfaces. The project will be bid out in September, with a fall start. Construction will start up again in the spring for a substantial completion by summer 2020. That project was supported by a $400,000 PARC grant.

•Voke Park is another area that will soon receive more attention. The Bocce Court and fields were done over two years ago, but now it's time for some attention to be paid to the playground. Already, they have had one public meeting to get input on the park, and they are working on conceptual designs now.

"We'll apply for a grant in July to secure funding," said Train.

Design will be done in June 2020 and construction on that is likely to be 2021.

•The City is preparing to modernize the traffic signals and intersections at Williams/Chestnut and Williams/Broadway this summer. That upgrade will include new Smart Traffic Signals that are able to read the traffic flow and adjust signal timing on the fly. One of those lights has already been installed on Broadway and Webster earlier this year. Sidewalks will also be touched up as well.

PHOTOGRAPHY EXHIBIT AT CITY HALL

CHELSEA - Since 2016, Chelsea photographer Darlene 'Dar' DeVita has been traveling around the City Hall area and Broadway with her camera and portable backdrop – meeting the people of Chelsea and chronicling their images and their thoughts.

Such a seminal work is hard to narrow down for just one show, but DeVita will do just that on July 9, from 5-7 p.m. in the City Hall Gallery when she presents her 'People of Chelsea' work.

of Chelsea' work.

"I started in 2016 and got a grant from the Cultural Council in 2018, and now I'm going to be showing this work at City Hall," she said. "I interviewed and photographed so many people, black, white, old, young, Hispanic and non-Hispanic."

The exhibit is not only De-Vita's photographs of people, but also text that describes some of their opinions and feelings about Chelsea.

Being a majority Spanish-speaking community, DeVita – who doesn't speak Spanish – had to find a helper. She found that in Sarah Putnam, who spoke fluent Spanish and helped DeVita tap into the entirety of the community.

"I tried to find a few people and I needed someone who could speak fluent Spanish," she said. "I ended up working with Sarah Putnam who speaks fluently. We had a blast. We went out and set up our backdrop and it wasn't that hard. We would smile and people would smile back at us. We would speak to them in Spanish and most people were cooperative."

Former NBA star Shaquille O'Neal – known now as DJ Diesel – was one of the first acts at the Mémoire Nightclub in Everett's Encore Boston Harbor on Thursday, June 27. The former Boston Celtic has now become one of the top DJs in the world, and prior to his show, he walked the gaming floor and greeted guests at the resort. Afterward, at his show, he attracted hundreds of partiers to the nightclub.

DeVita said there was one man outside City Hall that they were trying to speak with who understood Spanish, but was mute. After finding that out, they were able to communicate with him. The man, who is well known for riding a bike in the neighborhood, allowed her to photograph him.

"Everyone knows him from the bike he has," she said. "I ran into him a few weeks later and we saw each other and it was a beautiful moment."

DeVita said she is still finalizing the text, but found that everyone – aside from one women – really enjoyed living in Chelsea.

Others included were City Councillor Leo Robinson, former Treasurer Bob Boulrice, and folks from the waterfront as well.

Even though the show is coming up and the City Hall area is played out, DeVita said the work isn't finished.

"I really want to continue with it and I think I will," she said. "The challenge is I can't just go on the street with a backdrop. I have to get a permit from the City. They have been wonderful about it. I'm dying to go to Admiral's Hill because I'd like to hear what they have to say about Chelsea. That's definitely the place I want to go shoot next."

MYSTIC RIVER MAKES THE GRADE

EVERETT - In collaboration with the US Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), the Mystic River Watershed Association issued the 2018 Water Quality Report Card for the Mystic River watershed yesterday at the Mystic Lakes Dam in Arlington.

The Mystic River and the Mystic Lakes continue to have clean water--earning grades of A- and A in this latest report card. This is the fifth year in a row that the river and lakes have earned A-range grades.

Upper Mystic Lake meets public health standards for swimming more than 95 percent of the time in dry weather, and the Mystic River meets canoeing and rowing standards more than 98% of the ime in dry weather.

"I encourage community members to go out and boat on the Mystic and Malden Rivers, and to swim at Shannon Beach at Upper Mystic Lake," said Patrick Herron, Executive Director of the Mystic River Watershed Association (MyRWA). "These are great public resources. We are so happy that they we can provide evidence that they are clean at a time when they are also becoming more accessible for community members with more public boat launches, canoe/kayak rentals, and connected paths and parks."

There is also good news downstream with water quality improvements noted at the Island End River between Everett and Chelsea. The grade at this site has improved from an F to a C+ in three short years.

However, the report did not contain all good news. Many of the smaller rivers and tributaries that lead to the Lakes and to the main stem of the Mystic continue to receive poor grades. For example, the Aberjona River receives a grade D+, while Alewife Brook gets a D. And conditions at many locations are worse during and after rain

"The pollution tracked in the report card is bacteria pollution from untreated wastewater, which gets to rivers and lakes through old and leaky infrastructure. These pathways introduce more contamination when it rains, so bacteria levels are usually higher in wet weather, especially in time to invest in our watershed's water quality is now," said Andy Hrycyna, Watershed Scientist. "The report card gathers the data needed to fix old problems and plan for the future."

The report card, which is issued for all major water bodies in the watershed (or, "watersheds in Massachusetts") by the federal Environmental Protection Agency (EPA), uses data provided by the Massachusetts Water Resources Authority (MWRA), Department Massachusetts of Environmental Protection (DEP) and the Mystic River Watershed Association's Baseline Water Quality Monitoring Program. To gather baseline data, MyRWA depends on a cohort of dedicated citizen scientists who take water samples at 15 locations throughout the watershed each month.

The Mystic River Watershed Association works to improve the lives of the more than 600,000 residents of Mystic River communities through its efforts to protect and restore water quality, natural habitat and open space throughout the 76 square mile

WEIGHING IN ON SUPERINTENDENT PROCESS

EVERETT - On Tuesday, June 25, around 40 people gathered at the Parlin Library for the first public meeting on the process of finding a new Everett superintendent for Public Schools.

The Massachusetts Association of School Committees (MASC) and the Everett School Committee are joining forces in its search to replace Interim Supt. Janice Gauthier Gauthier took over in 2018 for Fred Foresteire, who resigned suddenly last December following claims of sexual harassment during his 30-year

Leading the meeting were MASC Field Director Kathleen Kelly, MASC Executive Director Glenn Koocher and School Committee Chair Thomas Abruzzese. Translators were provided by the Everett Public Schools.

Those in attendance included Sen. Sal DiDomenico; School Committee members Marcony Almeida Barros, David Ela and Frank Parker; City Councilors Fred Capone, Rosa DiFlorio and Michael McLaughlin; members of the Everett Education Coalition; parents of children in the Everett Public Schools; current and former educators in the district; and other concerned citizens.

Participants were asked to share their views about what priorities and characteristics they are seeking in the next superintendent, as well as what they perceived to be the strengths and weaknesses of the school district.

•Strengths

Participants commented that teachers and students were what made Everett schools great, highlighting the resiliency and diversity of the student body. They also cited that the high school is open until 10 p.m., giving the students a safe place to hang out away from the city streets. Councilor McLaughlin mentioned the many programs and sports teams available to students.

"So much happens that isn't about math and history,' he said. "There are so many opportunities for children to advance."

Weaknesses

The collective sigh came when the crowd was asked to identify areas for improvement. It was apparent that the community was still reeling from the events of the past year. They alluded to a system that supported sexual harassment for decades, but also one permeated by a "pervasive culture of fear.

This has left some feeling distrustful and wary of any potential repeats of the mistakes of the past.

"It's a damaged culture," offered one educator and resident. "There's a lot of distrust. I was [there] for 31 years. I left to save myself. But a lot of people in this room knew what was going on and did nothing about it. I have a big issue with that. It's a trust issue."

In addition to rebuilding trust with the community, other potential ideas for growth included improving teacher retention, bringing community resources to the awareness of parents and families, hiring more educators of color, allowing the potential for more collaboration among elementary school classes, making after-school programs more affordable, and emphasizing restorative justice not just at the high school level, but across the district.

•The ideal candidate

Traits the community listed for their ideal candidate community-oriented, bilingual, open to feedback, professional, communicative, compassionate and independent. They are seeking a delegator, a bridge builder, a strong advocate for teachers; someone who values diversity, is committed to transparency, and who isn't afraid to challenge the status quo. Ideally this person would be capable of earning the respect of the teachers as well as the

"Someone who has authority without being authoritarian," added Everett Education Coalition member Jessica Haralson. "There is a way to be the boss and be supportive."

School Committee member Ela echoed that sentiment, saying, "We need someone who will take over and lead the schools, not run the Sen. DiDomenico was adamant that the new superintendent have the intention of staying on.

"I don't want someone who's going to be here as a stepping stone," he said. "I have seen other communities that have that problem where every three years they start from scratch. We need a commitment from them that they're not here so they can gain experience and go on to a bigger community."

The reverse argument was also made, with one resident saying he didn't want to see another 30-year superinten-

"They lose perspective and there's too much corruption," he said. "When it's time for them to leave, they gotta' leave."

If there was one point that every participant agreed on, it was that the new superintendent should be a career educator with classroom experience. In a show of hands, nearly all present expressed that it would be a deal-breaker if he or she did not have experience in the classroom.

Abruzzese concurred, likening a superintendent who had never been a teacher to a judge who had never been a lawver.

"It would be difficult to accept criticism from someone who's never done what I'm doing," he allowed.

The community was also mostly aligned in their desire to hire someone from within the community, rather than an out-of-town or out-of-state hire. There are currently 14 employees in the district who fit the prerequisites for the position of superintendent.

"Everyone in the community knows everyone," said Sen. DiDomenico. "We need someone entrenched in this community.'

Participants expressed that a candidate from the outside would not have an understanding of or appreciation for just how diverse and energized the community is.

"It's a big universe in a small city," said one participant, mentioning diversity not just of race and ethnicity, but of language, religion and socioeconomic status.

Abruzzese, on the other hand, says he's heard from others who want a candidate who can't locate Everett on a

"There are strong feelings both ways," he said. "It's vital for someone to come in with a fresh outlook to everything. We'll be getting applications from out of state.

"It's going to take a very special person," he concluded. "But I think that person's out there."

Next steps

Abruzzese said the School Committee was dedicated to realizing a fully transparent process in their search for a new superintendent, with a robust public input period. He also mentioned that all evaluation documents of superintendents are public record and that the School Committee has the authority to dismiss a superintendent that does not live up to their expectations.

The Search Committee will be conducting focus groups in the fall as well as producing an online survey in multiple languages. It will also be hosting several other community meetings to solicit public input and hope to select a viable replacement before the winter holiday.

The Everett Education Coalition was to have had a second community meeting on the superintendent search on Monday night, July 1, which came beyond Independent deadlines.

FLAVORED VAPING AND NICOTINE PRODUCTS TO BE RESTRICTED

LYNN - Starting Oct. 1, the sale of flavored nicotine and vaping products will be restricted for sale to adult-only establishments. The flavor ban does not include menthol, wintergreen and mint.

Last week, following a public hearing on May 14, the Board of Health voted 3-0 to restrict the sales of flavored nicotine products. You must be 21 or over to purchase nicotine products.

The meeting room was filled with convenience store owners from Lynn and the surrounding area. Most believe the restriction will significantly cut into their busi-

Nicotine is big business as proven by an email sent to store owners from a national cigarette company, which mistakenly advertised Tuesday meeting as a public hearing.

Joyce Redford, director of the North Shore/Cape Ann Tobacco Control said now 69 percent of the population has a flavor ban or restriction over them.

"The CDC has said the flavors are used to entice teens," she said. "Flavors were banned in tobacco products (cigars and cigarettes) in 2009 by the federal government. We've lost all that ground to e-cigarettes and JUUL."

Board member Dr. John Streriti said vaping among the youth has become epidemic. Not only are the cartridges flavored and, they also are packed with addictive nicotine. The flavoring of e-cigarettes ranges from coconut to mango and bubblegum to blueberry, and the companies encourage young people to vape or smoke.

JUUL is one of the most popular vaping devices and is sold as a way to help adults quit smoking cigarettes, but this product is also the most popular among youth.

"They started making menthol cigarettes in 1932," said Tony Patel, who owns several convenience stores in the area. "They legalize marijuana but they ban this. How are we going to bail out of 32 percent loss in revenue?"

FINISHING TOUCHES FOR WATERFRONT SQUARE

REVERE - The final building in the Waterfront Square development is ready to be built, marking over two decades of development along Ocean Avenue.

The Zoning Board of Appeals granted several variances for a brand new, 12-story, 230-unit residential apartment building to be built by principal Andy Montelli and Post Road Realty, LLC at Lot 2, 656 Ocean Ave.

Parking will also be included in the building and it will be included in the rent – a bone of contention with the city since other developers have forced people to park in the street or pay extra for the privilege to park in the building. The building will also have a coffee shop.

Attorney Corey Rhodes, who represents Post Road Realty, said this is the final vacant parcel in the Wonderland Transit Oriented Development overlay district better known as WTOD.

"Post Road is a marquee developer and recently renovated the Charleston Chew factory and completed the recent development of the Harley Davidson building in Everett," Rhodes said. "They have been lauded for their attention to detail and high quality. This is the keystone building of the WTOD."

The lot is currently being used by the Department of Recreation and Conservation as its maintenance facility as a new DCR maintenance and bath facility are built.

Rhodes said: "It will sit between Ocean 650 and the Vanguard, just north of Wonderland station. It will finish Waterfront Square which has spanned the last two decades," The building will be built with steel, concrete and glass.

Seventy percent of the development will be studio and one-bedroom units.

"We justly believe this is going to be the gem of Revere Beach," Rhodes said. "We want to promote it to young professionals who commute to Boston via the T. These will be good-sized units, not micro units."

Rhodes gave a brief history of Waterfront Square, which was created under former Mayor Tom Ambrosino, the DCR and then the MBTA. The MBTA parking garage, with 1,400 parking spaces and the Markey pedestrian bridge were also part of the project. Developers have taken formerly underutilized vacant lots and spurred on economic development in Revere. There is also access for the fire department along the side and back of the building. There will also be an easement for maintaining the Eastern County Ditch.

The variances were for side yard setback, minimum parking ratio and maximum floor ratio.

"I want to emphasize the importance of this being the final development project in the Waterfront Square development plan," said Bob O'Brien, director of Economic Development for Revere. "I commend the quality of this development team. They're exactly the kind of developer Revere wants."

RIZZO FILES NOMINATION PAPERS FOR MAYOR

REVERE Councillor-at-Large Dan Rizzo submitted his nomination papers for the office of mayor to the Revere Election Department at City Hall.

In a Facebook post, Rizzo indicated that he and his team had collected four times the number of signatures that were required for nomination.

Rizzo is one of three candidates who have pulled nomination papers for mayor. Incumbent Brian Arrigo and Cheryl Whittredge have also pulled papers.

Rizzo said he has knocked on more than 5,000 doors in the city since announcing his bid for election on April 4. A campaign reception for his birthday celebration drew a large crowd, estimated at more than 350 people, to the Casa Lucia Function Facility.

In previous campaigns, Rizzo said he had collected hundreds of signatures for his nomination papers.

"My focus has been more on talking to voters rather than occupying them with signing my nomination papers," said Rizzo. "I want to spend the lion's share of my time talking to voters about issues that are important to them."

FERRY FACES PROBLEMS

WINTHROP - Due to serious mechanical issues the Winthrop Ferry service will be suspended until repairs can be made, according to Town Manager Austin Faison.

Last week the Winthrop Ferry, Valkyrie was out of service on June 25 with a problem in the port engine. Then town officials announced on June 28 that there were "serious mechanical issues" and service would be suspended until further notice due to "engine malfunctions".

"The problem is an overheated engine. We may have to replace a cylinder or the entire engine," Faison said, adding that the town may be looking for an outside operator of the ferry. "The town has done a commendable job running the ferry service.'

The Winthrop Ferry Valkyrie had to suspend service on Wednesday, June 19, and the morning shift on Thursday, June 20 due to a shortage of eligible captains to drive the boat.

Town officials had hope to jump on board the opportunity to utilize the ferry for shuttling people to the new Encore Boston Harbor via the ferry stop at the Aquarium.

The ferry will be down for the remainder of the week and my office is working hard to continue to service commuters in Winthrop and Quincy," Faison said. "We are looking how to continue service in the near

Going back in history, the town sought to construct the pier, marina and terminal building between 2003 and 2005. Both were finished by 2012 at a cost of $3,429,993 funded through a Public Works Economic Development (PWED) grant, the Seaport Advisory Council and the Executive Office of Transportation. There is an agreement for the state to purchase the vessel if the town stops operating the ferry. The final cost to build the ferry was $981,252 with the town paying $196,250. Another $28,000 was also paid by the town for electronics and navigation equipment. The town began running the ferry service in March 2016 after having the 73-seat vessel built in Maryland.

Please check the town website at www.town.winthrop. ma.us for further information.
