John Nucci joins Polysystic Kidney Disease Walk to raise money and awareness

By John Lynds

On Sunday in Brighton, former Boston City Councilor John Nucci and his family took part in the Walk for Polysystic Kidney Disease (PKD). Team Nucci raised money during Sunday's walk for PKD research with the goal of some day finding a cure for the disease.

Last year Nucci underwent a lifesaving kidney transplant surgery after from Revere native Kerri Abrams came forward as a donor. Nucci is now back at work at Suffolk University where he serves as Senior Vice President.

During his long wait for a donor, Nucci dedicated his life to raising awareness and money for PKD.

"People should not feel that the solution for people like me with PKD is only a transplantation, although it is obviously a lifesaver,"

Gladys Oliveros announced as new East Boston Main Streets Director

By John Lynds

Gladys Oliveros, who has been a fixture in East Boston since immigrating from Colombia 35 years ago, was announced as the new executive director of East Boston Main Streets.

Oliveros replaces long-time director, Max Gruner, who left his post last week for a new job in New Mexico.

"It is amazing and I'm happy to see so many familiar faces that will help me along the way," said Oliveros during Gruner's farewell party that also served as an opportunity to introduce her to the community.

Oliveros, who has been working as a program supervisor at Boston Center for Youth and Families' Paris Street site for the past two years said she has some pretty big shoes to fill replacing Gruner.

"It's going to be a challenge but together we can do it," Oliveros contied. "East Boston has been my home and my community for 35 years and I have always looked for ways to help the neighborhood. I look forward to working with all of you. For those of you who know me know if you pick up the phone and call me I am there and it will be the same at Main Streets."

Oliveros also thanked Gruner for his six years of

New East Boston Main Streets Director Gladys Oliveros.

Orient Heights development on track, residents should be moving back in spring 2020

By John Lynds

In an interview with Eva Erlich the vice president of development for Trinity Financial said Phase II to redevelop the entire Orient Heights Public Housing Development remains on track and construction should wrap up in the first quarter of 2020.

"Construction is moving along very well," said Erlich. "If everything goes well and we have a good winter construction should be completed during the first quarter of 2020 with residents starting to move back to the development soon after."

Work began on the $51.6 million Phase II Orient Heights Public Housing Development project this year with Citizens Bank's Community Development Group providing $26 million in construction financing to help with Phase II of the project.

Like Phase I, Phase II will tear down the old post World War II-era brick housing on Vallar Road and replace it with 88 modern units of public housing.

Phase II is part of a larger effort to transform the 331-unit of Boston Housing Authority (BHA) owned public housing development that was originally built in 1951.

The financing from Citizens Bank helped demolish 87 existing units in four buildings and the construction of 88 replacement state-funded public housing units in two townhouse

Superintendent Dr. Brenda Cassellius tours East Boston High School

By John Lynds

On Friday morning new Boston Public School Superintendent Dr. Brenda Cassellius toured East Boston High School.

The Superintendent was met by EBHS Headmaster Phil Brangiforte, a group of students, coaches, parents and other members of the high school's staff.

The visit gave Cassellius the opportunity to see firsthand the work that the high school's staff has been doing to address learning and achievement gaps, add more innovative programs and extracurricular activities, as well as to hear from students, teachers and parents on what more BPS can do to support the school's efforts.

One topic that came up was Cassellius exploring the possibility of raising the minimum GPA for students-athletes from 1.67 to 2.5. Currently students playing a sport must maintain a 1.67 GPA or higher while playing sports, as well as have an attendance rate of 85 percent or higher.

LIZZIE BORDEN AND THE 40 WHACKS

The Delvena Theatre Company will be presenting Lizzie Borden and the 40 Whacks at the Boston Public Library, East Boston Branch, 365 Bremen Street, Boston, MA on Thursday, October 3, at 6 p.m..

On a scorching hot day in Fall River, back in August of 1892, a heinous crime occurred. Spinster Lizzie Borden was accused, tried and acquitted of the vicious axe murders of her father and stepmother. This true unsolved mystery has fascinated people for over 100 years. Two people died on that day in 1892, but Lizzie continues to live on in American folklore.

An edutainment production, written by Fran Baron and directed by Joseph Zamparelli, the show will feature Lynne Moulton and Joseph Zamparelli in multiple roles. The performance includes a mock trial that invites the audience to participate by questioning Lizzie and deciding her guilt or innocence. Did she or didn't she? You be the judge on October 3rd at the Boston Public Library, East Boston Branch.

Lynne Moulton has performed several roles for Delvena Theatre including her IRNE nominated Martha in Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf? and Sissy in Piece of My Heart and also for numerous other theatre companies in the New England area. She received her acting training at the Royal Academy of Dramatic Art under the direction of Sir Robert Palmer and at Trinity Rep Conservatory.

Joseph Zamparelli is a professional actor, director and producer. A graduate of Boston College (Psychology/Theater Arts) he went on to the professional training program at Circle in the Square Theater School in NYC. In addition to commercial film and television work, he is Producing/Artistic Director of BostonAlive.

The Delvena Theatre Company was founded in 1992 and has performed at various venues, most often at the Boston Center for the Arts. The company was nominated for five Independent Reviewers of New England awards. Its production of 'Who's Afraid of Virginia Woolf?' was on Theatre Mirror's Best List for acting, directing and production. Presentations of 'Anna Weiss' and 'Beyond Therapy' were included on Theatre Mirror's best play list and 'Blue Heart' was placed on Aisle Say's best list.

THE JPNA FALL FLING IS BACK BY POPULAR DEMAND

By popular demand, the Jeffries Point Neighborhood Association is bringing back the Fall Fling, their neighborhood cocktail party to encourage local residents to meet one another.

The Fall Fling will be on Thursday, October 3 from 6:30 to 9 p.m. at the Embassy Suites at Boston Logan Airport. Tickets are on sale for a cost of $25 in advance and $35 at the door.

Tickets are available on Eventbrite, or the JPNA webpage at, www.jeffriespoint.org. A variety of restaurants with easy access to Jeffries Point are being asked to participate, providing food tastings.

"Neighbors want the chance to meet other neighbors" stated Margaret Farmer, Co-Chair.

"Hopefully, everyone will meet someone on their street they didn't know before!" JPNA Vice Chair Rachel Blomerth added, "We really appreciate the sponsorship of Embassy Suites, Portside Development and the East Boston Neighborhood Health Center to make this event possible."

Ryan Persac of The Persac Group real estate is the "King of the Bar", sponsoring an open beer and wine bar from 7 to 8 p.m. for all attendees. There will be a full cash bar available for the entire event as well. The event was last held in 2016, when residents gathered at CrossFit Jeffries Point.

"Funds raised will help us provide free events, such as the 3 movies we did this summer with NOAH, as well as neighborhood potlucks and park beautification" explained JPNA Secretary Mary Cole.

buildings and one mid-rise buildings. Phase II will also include improvements to the existing infrastructure and open spaces.

"Once construction on the buildings is done we will still need to finish some landscaping in the spring, renovate the basketball courts, and other odds and ends," said Elrich.

Elrich said the entire process to replace the aging public housing development has been moving along rather swiftly considering the need to cobble together funding from a variety of different sources.

"We started this project in 2016 and by 2018 we were done with Phase I," said Elrich. "Phase II will be done by 2020 so for a project of this size it's been moving pretty quickly and we'd love to keep up that momentum."

Elrich said Trinity is now working with partners at the BHA and state to begin exploring funding sources for the last phase of the re-development.

"It's hard when we have to cobble together funding for the different phases especially when funding sources are scarce," said Elrich. "But we've been lucky and have been able to seamlessly move from one phase to the next and secure funding as we go along for each phase."

Trinity also had some initial conversations with Eastie's elected officials to discuss the possibility of Suffolk Downs Developer, HYM Investment, becoming a funding partner. HYM plans to transform the 160 plus-acre former horse racetrack into a mixed-use development with 10,000 units of housing.

Some, like City Councilor Lydia Edwards, have expressed concern that the affordable housing component at Suffolk Downs should be more than the minimum of 13 percent of the total number of units.

Edwards has said she wants to see a real 'community' developed there for all and not just for some.

While HYM has not signaled that they would move the needle on the amount of affordable housing on site, becoming a financial partner on the Orient Heights Development may be a good faith gesture that the developer is willing to address affordable housing shortages in the Eastie and Boston as a whole.

"We have initial conversations about this concept with our elected officials," said Elrich. "They seem generally supportive of the concept but we really need to have further conversations on how something like that would look further down the road."

ENJOY THE FALL SEASON

Despite the exceptionally wonderful and warm early-fall weather we have been enjoying recently, the calendar does not lie -- and the fall season squarely is upon us.

For many New Englanders, autumn is our favorite time of year.

Even the warmest of days are tempered by cool nights, bringing a crispness to the air that is devoid of the stickiness of summer's languid humidity. All of us (especially those of us who are getting on in years) breathe more easily when the dew point is not in the oppressive range.

Unlike summer, when the heat and humidity confine us to our air-conditioned homes, cars, and offices, fall beckons us to get outside and be active, whether we're hardcore athletes or those who just like to take a nice walk.

Fall also is foliage season, arguably the most-glorious time of year in our region, when splashes of color are everywhere, bringing us nature's palate that is a feast for the eyes. The French philosopher Albert Camus put it this way, "Autumn is a second spring, when every leaf is a flower."

An autumn hike in the mountains of New Hampshire, Vermont, and the Berkshires truly is a Zen-like experience.

However, as with everything in life, fall is fleeting. By this weekend, the leaves already will be turning color in far northern New England and the profusion of reds, oranges, and yellows will drift southward over the ensuing few weeks. We recall being in Portland, Maine (when our children were younger and they were at a Columbus Day weekend soccer tournament) and the leaves turned color seemingly overnight during our stay.

So enjoy the fall while it is here and take advantage of the all-too-brief window of opportunity to create memories that will last a lifetime for ourselves and our families.

GUEST OP-ED

Why we all need improved Medicare for all now

By Maria Termini

Plain and simple we need Improved Medicare for All now to make sure everyone has the healthcare they need. Currently many people cannot get the healthcare they need. They can't afford healthcare and they suffer and die and this is wrong. Healthcare is a matter of life and death, a human need, a human right. Every day people are denied that right because they can't afford it, even with insurance. Our profit-based healthcare system is the most expensive and complicated in the world. In order to keep their profits high for their stockholders, insurance companies are raising their premiums, and increasing deductibles, copayments and out of pocket expenses.

Many people can't afford the co-payments. My friend Melinda is a single parent with a job that pays barely above minimum wage. She has health insurance. Each time she takes her son to a doctor, she has a co-payment of $70 which is a financial hardship. Melinda herself hasn't been to a doctor in many years because she can't afford the co-payment even though she has some medical problems. So, she suffers.

We have about 1,600 different insurance companies in the U.S. and this results in high administrative costs, endless paper work, and a very high overhead to pay for all their advertising and ways to deny care. This drives up the costs. The insurance companies pay their executives salaries of millions of dollars. When the former CEO of Blue Cross Blue Shield, Clive Killingsworth left his job a few years ago, he walked away with a golden parachute of $11.3 million in compensation and he had only worked there six years. Because these executives are overpaid, the premiums and costs keep increasing. And more and more people can't afford to get the care they need.

Insurance companies have many complicated regulations and the fine print is often unintelligible and with horrible consequences. A woman received an emergency heart transplant at a hospital in her health plan's network. However, no one bothered to tell her that the transplant surgeons didn't take her particular insurance. They billed her $70,000 and sent collection agencies and lawyers after her while she was still home recuperating. She may have recovered but chances are good she has lost her home.

The cost of prescription drugs is soaring. Insulin is now so expensive some diabetics can't afford it. Some ration this most necessary drug, taking a dose every other day. Some die because the drug companies insist on making a huge profit. I was in Bolivia a few years ago and got bit by a dog and needed rabies shots. They were $35 each there. I got my final shot in the U.S. and it was $1,300.

Our healthcare costs have actually increased despite the complex legislation known as the Affordable Care Act (also known as Obama Care.) This legislation was written by the insurance companies and for the insurance companies. The reality is that the Affordable Care Act is not going to make healthcare affordable, only more expensive as premiums, deductibles and out of pocket expenses get higher and higher each year, escalating beyond the current rates of inflation. The costs go higher because of our profit driven system.

We cannot let this system continue. Our health is very important. We cannot be complacent and accept the healthcare system we have as the way things are. We must do something now about changing our healthcare system for the better. We need to get corporate profits out of the healthcare equation.

The solution to our healthcare crisis is Improved Medicare for All, a system of non-profit single payer healthcare, publicly funded, privately administered. Improved Medicare for All will provide affordable healthcare for everyone, increased access to prevention and early intervention, providing dental and vision care. Preventive care is critical. I know too many women who have died because of delayed cancer diagnoses. Improved Medicare for All is a simple system. It will reduce administrative waste and can bargain for the best prices for drugs and medical services. Hospitals and physicians will no longer need huge billing departments to process complicated insurance forms.

There would be no need for private health insurance. Improved Medicare for All would be funded by a small tax and premiums, deductibles, copayments would be eliminated. We would pay a lot less for Improved Medicare for All than the current bloated system.

Canada has single-payer healthcare. In Canada no one dies because they are uninsured or can't afford health care. Canadians live longer and are healthier than us and spend about half per capita on healthcare costs than we do in the U.S. No one loses their home because they can't pay medical bills. Diabetics get the insulin they need.

We can get Improved Medicare for All by passing legislation. There are bills in the Massachusetts Statehouse (House 1194, Senate 683) and also the U.S. Congress (HR 1384, Senate 1129) for Improved Medicare for All. I urge you to study these bills and insist your legislators pass them. Having the healthcare we need and having it be affordable is a critical issue that touches all of us. It's not a partisan issue. It's just simple justice. Let's work together for Improved Medicare for All and make healthcare a valued human right. We need to make our voices heard. It will not be easy, but together we can do it.

service to Main Streets.

Oliveros is a native of Barranquilla, Colombia and moved to Eastie over three decades ago.

Before working for BCYF Oliveros founded Casa de la Cultura. Casa de la Cultura is a Community Center focused on the Latino population of Eastie--offering education, information, recreational and cultural events to promote diversity growth among our community. The organization offered language classes, computer classes, chess classes for kids, citizenship's classes as well as immigration services, and fitness.

East Boston Main Streets is a nonprofit community improvement organization committed to fostering an inclusive community that supports the growth and well-being of small business community and residents.

In Eastie, Main Streets started as a novel idea--to take a stretch of Eastie's business district along Meridian Street decimated in the 1970s by poor design, steel grates and unsightly signage and transform it into an attractive commercial area with a uniformed look.

Throughout the 1990s EBMS exploded onto the scene handing out grants to business owners on board with Main Streets's vision of storefront improvements and a more welcoming business.

expectations for our student athletes,” said Cassellius. “I would like to see the minimum at 2.5 during the season in which a student is playing a sport. I believe student athletes are students first so I want to raise the expectation around GPA and attendance because in Boston we have an issue around attendance and we need to improve that. I think our student-athletes are role models in schools and so it makes sense that we have higher expectations for them. I’m working with the coaches now to raise the overall GPA to 2.0 with a 2.5 GPA during the season.”

Cassellius said with a renewed focus on athletes also being scholars high schools in Boston can compete during the year on which school team has had or maintained the highest GPA.

“We could give a special honor out to the team that has had the highest GPA during a given season,” said Cassellius.

Cassellius said her plan would also call for a support network for student athletes that start to slip below the 2.0 GPA with tutoring help, academic intervention and other programs to help athletes maintain a high level of academic achievement.

“Student-athletes are going to have to learn these skills if they are going to college,” said Cassellius. “When playing college level sports they are going to need to balance their academics with the sport they are playing to keep their eligibility. I want to set them up for success.”

Her plan was met with some skepticism from EBHS students with one student arguing that some of his peers may not be the best students but love sports. Their participation in school sports, he said, keeps them off the streets and out of trouble. He worried that if the minimum requirements were raised to high to quickly many of these student-athletes may drop the one thing that keeps them coming to school every day.

After discussing this topic Cassellius was shown around the school and visited the high school’s newly rehabbed library,

As your Boston City Councilor At-Large, Michael Flaherty works to address the daily quality-of-life concerns that impact our homes, community health centers, local business districts, schools and beyond.

Michael Flaherty’s record to make Boston an inclusive city for everyone includes:

- Leading the efforts for the passage and adoption of the Community Preservation Act.
- Expanding access to affordable housing.
- Calling for school safety programs to protect our students, faculty and teachers.
- Strengthening partnerships between our neighborhoods and community health centers.
- Enabling access to green-sector jobs.

On Tuesday, September 24th, vote for Michael Flaherty.

EAST BOSTON ANNUAL 9-11 MEMORIAL

Eighteen years ago, two planes hijacked from Logan Airport crashed into the World Trade centers while planes hijacker from Newark and Dulles crashed into a field in Pennsylvania and the Pentagon.

On Sunday East Bostonians paid tribute to those who lost their lives on that fateful day and honored the men and woman who continue to protect our freedom.

The annual event was started by the late Fran Rowan as a way to keep the memories of those who perished on that fateful day and has been continued by the Sherman Family.

The service included the placing of a 9-11 Memorial Wreath at Piers Park, singing of patriotic songs and speeches.

OHNC votes down
Leyden Street project

By John Lynds

Despite several changes to the project at 115 Leyden St., Orient Heights Neighborhood Council members voted 33 to 7 against the project Monday night at the group’s September meeting.

The plan is to erect an 8-unit dwelling with 9 off-street parking spaces on a 6,200 square foot lot. Currently an existing three-family home is on the lot and the developer plans to keep some elements of the existing home and add to the structure.

“The existing three family would be partially demolished and some part of it would be used and incorporated into the new building,” said Attorney Richard Lynds.

Lynds several changes have been made to the project since it was first proposed to the OHNC.

“We are maintaining a lot of the original architectural features of the existing home,” said Lynds. “We you look at the rendering I think you will agree that we’ve come a long way to try and come up with something that fits in with the rest of the street. We reduced the proposal from 9 to 8 units but maintained the 9 off-street parking spaces. This was originally a full three-story building and we have dropped it down to two and a half stories to make it more similar to the types of homes you see along Leyden Street and around the neighborhood. The total square feet (of living space) has also been reduced and the amount of open space increased.”

However, the changes still did not sway members to support the project.

said Nucci after the walk. “The real solution is to find a cure for PKD. Having a beautiful grandson brought into our lives six weeks ago is amazing. Frankly, I frankly wasn’t sure I’d see the day, but thanks to Kerri Abrams and her donated kidney, here I am. God bless Kerri and others like her who sign up to donate a kidney to those in need.”

Nucci, now 67, has suffered from PKD since his 30s. PKD is the same kidney disease that killed his dad at the age of 64. Nucci found out that he had inherited the same genetic disorder where the renal tubules become structurally abnormal, resulting in the development and growth of multiple cysts within the kidney.

The diagnosis was grim and for the last three decades, Nucci lived knowing that someday his kidneys would begin shutting down.

After Abrams was found to be a donor match, the two underwent surgery on June 19, 2018 to save Nucci’s life.

Abrams, who owns Kinship Florist in Revere, had a family connection to Nucci.

Thirty-five years ago Abrams’ parents, Kim and Al, were political supporters and friends of Nucci. At the time neither Nucci nor the Abrams could have ever guessed that Kim and Al’s daughter would donate her kidney to help save Nucci’s

“On Sunday the entire Nucci family and friends participated in the Walk To End Polysystic Kidney Disease,” said Nucci’s wife Peggy. “This deadly disease has no cure and takes lives every day. Thankfully, John, who inherited PKD from this dad, received a kidney transplant from Kerri Abrams (our angel), but not everyone is so lucky. Hopefully a cure will be found soon.”

Over the summer a group of close friends and family were invited to a luncheon at Rino’s Place in East Boston.

The day marked the one year anniversary of Nucci’s kidney transplant. Of the event, Nucci said he wanted to bring the group of friends and family together to thank them for all their love and support during his battle against PKD, his life-saving transplant surgery and subsequent recovery.

“There are really no words to explain the gratitude I feel towards my family and friends and of course Kerri, my wonderful donor who gave me this second chance at life,” said an emotional Nucci during that luncheon. “Being surrounded by all of you makes this already special day even more special and rewarding. The one anniversary gift that would make Kerri and I the most happy would be if everybody here spread the word about organ donation and how important it is. It literally saves lives.”

East Boston non-profits receive grants

By John Lynds

Two East Boston non-profits will share in $2.2 million that was awarded to 51 organizations this week that promote economic mobility for low-income residents.

Last week Mayor Martin Walsh and the Mayor’s Office of Workforce Development (OWD) announced the latest round of federal Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) funding. The grant money going to these two Eastie organizations will provide employment, education and economic services.

“In Boston, we are fortunate to have organizations that are dedicated to creating economic opportunity for everyone,” said Walsh. “Together, these grants are truly a partnership. By providing these organizations with the funding they need, we are investing in our residents, and taking another step forward in closing the equity gap, creating more opportunities for all.”

The East Boston Social Centers will receive $20,000 to support its Boston Youth Network (BYN). The BYN is a free after-school program serving East Boston’s at-risk middle school and high school students.

Zumix, the neighborhood’s premier music, radio and performing arts agency, will receive $30,000 in grant money to support one of its programs that offers hands-on academic programming for low-income youth ages 12-18 in Eastie.

Walsh said this grant cycle OWD prioritized organizations offering services that give residents access to economic opportunity, including employment training and career readiness, youth development programming, essential language access and economic benefits counseling. The organizations represent nearly every neighborhood in Boston and consist of various competitive program models.

Grantees were selected through an open and competitive Request for Proposals (RFP) procurement process with input from both the public and private sectors.

Sen. Boncore Endorses Halbert for Boston City Council

State Sen. Joseph Boncore (1st Suffolk and Middlesex) has announced his endorsement of former East Boston resident and community leader David Halbert for Boston City Council At-Large.

“I am proud to announce my endorsement of David Halbert, candidate for Boston City Council At-Large. David was quick to extend a hand in friendship and partnership after I was elected, and I have enjoyed working with him on behalf of the people of East Boston ever since. He has remained active in civic organizations throughout East Boston, even though he moved to Dorchester, and brings thoughtful leadership and a willingness to work to each one. It is that combination of commitment, hard work, and creativity that we need on the Boston City Council,” said Senator Boncore.

Mr. Halbert remarked about receiving the Senator’s support, “I am humbled to receive the endorsement of Sen. Boncore, a dedicated public servant, tireless advocate for the communities he represents, and someone I am proud to call a friend. I had the pleasure to work alongside him as a community member and activist when I lived in East Boston, and now I look forward to the opportunity to work with him on behalf of his district, and all of Boston’s neighborhoods, as City Councilor At-large.”

David Halbert is a candidate for Boston City Councilor At-large. He has spent over 15 years in public service, most recently with the Middlesex Sheriff’s Office where he served as Deputy Director of Community Affairs. A lifelong public servant and civic activist David has been a staff member for former Massachusetts Governor Deval Patrick and former Boston City Councilors Sam Yoon and John Tobin. David holds a Master of Public Administration degree from Northeastern University. He serves on the boards of East Boston Main Streets and the Piers Park Advisory Council, and is the former Affirmative Action and Outreach Chair of the Ward One Democratic Committee. David lives in Dorchester with his wife Lauren and their two daughters.

Phyllis Greco

Loving mother and grandmother

On Friday, August 23, 2019, Phyllis Greco, loving mother and grandmother, passed away at the age of 91.

Phyllis was born on Feb. 28,1928 in East Boston to Catarina and Antonio Greco. She is survived by her son, Brian Green, his wife, Amy Green and her grandson, Ryan.

Phyllis worked for over 30 years at Liberty Mutual in Boston. After retirement she worked at Jordan Marsh, Loehmanns and Hair ‘n Motion in Marblehead.

Phyllis enjoyed watching all Boston Sports teams especially the Red Sox. She loved all things fashion, but above all else her family, especially her grandson, Ryan from whom she received endless joy.

A private ceremony is planned. In lieu of flowers, donations can be made in her name to the demen-tiasociety.org. or charity of your choice.
