HVNA votes to approve project pitched end of Moore Street

By John Lynds

Members of the Harbor View Neighborhood Association (HVNA) voted 22-21 in favor of a 14-unit condo building on Moore Street.

The White and Gaeta families occupy three adjoining homes from 116 to 120 Moore St. Originally the White and Gaeta families received approval from the city to build a four-family home on an empty side yard that is part of 120 Moore St. The side yard was big enough to be subdivided and developed into the proposed four-family home.

However, this plan proved to be less cost effective than just demolishing the three existing homes, combining all the lots and constructing one 14-unit condo building with 15 parking spaces.

A few months back, the Whites and Gaetas went back to the drawing board to come up with a new plan.

Speak for the Trees and NOAH team up for Tree Canopy

By John Lynds

For nearly three years, a group of concerned teens from East Boston's Neighborhood of Affordable Housing (NOAH) have been trying to rekindle the neighborhood's grassroots effort to have more trees planted in Eastie. NOAH Youth members have launched the tree canopy project in an effort to bring awareness to Eastie's lack of street trees and want to double our tree canopy coverage in Eastie.

Recently NOAH has gotten some help from Speak for the Trees, a Bos-

Congressman Joe Kennedy III hosts Spanish-language town hall in East Boston

Special to the Times-Free Press

U.S Rep Joe Kennedy III hosted a Spanish-language town hall this Saturday at Veronica Robles Cultural Center in East Boston. Kennedy, who is challenging Sen. Ed Markey in a primary race for U.S Senate, took questions from an audience of Spanish-speaking community members for nearly an hour.

Chelsea City Councilor Judith Garcia, who has endorsed Kennedy, introduced the Congressman to a room full of Spanish-speaking residents from East Boston, Chelsea, and other towns and cities in the area.

Voters had the opportunity to ask the Congressman questions regarding his candidacy, positions and priorities without the filter of a translator.

Kennedy said that the East Boston town hall, along with another Span-

Shah Family Foundation revamps Salesian Boys & Girls Club kitchen

By John Lynds

For the past few years the Shah Family Foundation (SFF) has been helping East Boston schools outfit their cafeterias with new kitchen equipment in order to prepare fresh-cooked meals for students as part of the 'My Way Cafe' initiative.

Now the SFF has switched gears from school kitchens to helping one of Eastie's most-renowned youth programs.

The SFF recently outfitted the Salesian Boys & Girls Club's kitchen on Byron Street with Welbilt 'combi-ovens' that can not only reheat, but also cook and steam fresh foods.

"We are incredibly grateful to Jill Shah of the Shah Family Foundation and the wonderful staff for choosing our Club and making this project a reality," said Boys & Girls Club Executive Director Mike Triant. "Their genuine concern for the nutrition and health needs of the young people at our Club and throughout the community has enabled us to expand our food program and provide more choices of healthy and delicious meals for our members."

Triant said the Boys & Girls Club serves more than 130 meals at the club each day. The new kitchen will allow the Salesian to prepare hot, freshly cooked meals that will be prepared

Lawyers for Civil Rights files complaint against BPDA over Suffolk Downs development

By John Lynds

With the Boston Planning and Development Agency (BPDA) poised to approve the 161-acre Suffolk Downs mixed-use project later this month the Lawyers for Civil Rights (LCR) filed a Civil Rights complaint with the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD).

The complaint charges that the BPDA has violated federal civil rights law by failing to make the Suffolk Downs review process accessible to non-English speakers.

According to the complaint filed on behalf of GreenRoots, Inc. and City Life/Vida Urbana, LCR is asking HUD to halt the project until the BPDA comes into full compliance with federal laws, and urge the City of Boston to voluntarily conduct an independent language access audit of all city agencies.

Eutaw Street fire leaves 15 homeless

By John Lynds

The Mayor's Office of Neighborhood Services and the American Red Cross have found temporary housing for the 15 people displaced by a two-alarm fire that broke out on Eutaw Street last week.

Just before 9:30 p.m. on Thursday, Jan. 39, Boston Fire responded to a fire reported at 35 Eutaw St.

When firefighters arrived they observed smoke and fire coming from the third floor of the three-and-half story multi-family home.

Seeing that the home was attached to homes next door the fire department immediately ordered a second alarm in order to contain the blaze.

It took a little over 30 minutes for crews to knock the fire down.

Chief Joseph Finn said there were no injuries among firefighters that battled the fire or residents that lived in the home.

He estimated the damages to be about $300,000 and Boston Fire investigators are still investigating the cause of the fire.

When they first pitched the new plan to HVNA members they sought 18 units, then 17 and have now settled at 14 units with the 15 off-street parking spaces after several HVNA and abutters meetings.

The Whites and Gaetas, two longtime and well-known Eastie families, have maintained that they are looking to expand their living space to accommodate their growing families. The two families, who have been involved in a myriad of community-based youth programs for decades, want to be able to remain in Eastie and said the development of their properties on Moore Street will allow them to ton non-profit committed to supporting the vitality of the urban tree canopy in the Greater Boston area—especially in areas with low canopy coverage.

Speak for the Trees is working in cooperation with a newly formed group, TREE

Eastie and NOAH to document open tree pits, care for street trees, and get new trees planted in the neighborhood.

“Since Speak for the Trees was founded in 2018, we have turned to NOAH youth to learn about their successes and challenges in tree stewardship and tree advocacy work,” said Speak for the Trees Director David Meshoulam.

“The multi-year grassworks efforts that NOAH has undertaken to elevate the importance of trees serves as a model of community organizing that we hope can be replicated in other Environmental Justice neighborhoods throughout the city. This year, we’re thrilled to be able to work together to amplify their efforts by providing them with further resources and tools to engage residents and grow their urban forest, such as software, additional training, and trees for their residents to plant in private yards.”

Meshoulam, a life-long environmentalist and science educator, said trees are critical in protecting us from climate change and cleaning the air.

“The partnership between Speak for the Trees and NOAH is helping us grow our urban tree canopy in East Boston,” said NOAH’s Melinda Vega. “Not only to our efforts to plant and care for trees align, but we also share in the values of doing this work through a racial equity lens that prioritizes Environmental Justice neighborhoods such as East Boston. We’re thrilled to have our Youth Organizers collaborate with their Teen Urban Tree Corps members to provide Boston teens with the tools to become changemakers in their communities.”

The youths define the tree canopy as street trees or trees that line the sidewalks throughout the neighborhood. The youth have been working to gather information and data on the tree canopy and now are starting to plant these new trees throughout Eastie.

Vega said that nearly 70 trees were planted last year and another 40 are slated to be planted this year.

Using Google Earth the NOAH Youth mapped and market every tree in the neighborhood. They counted the number of trees per street and calculated how many trees could possibly fit on any given street. Studies show that ideally for a good urban tree canopy there is a tree every 20 to 25 feet.

copy there is a tree every 20 to 25 feet.

The Youth Crew found there were 1,924 trees in Eastie and over 300,000 linear feet of sidewalk space. On average there is a tree every 167 feet. If a tree was planted every 25 feet Eastie could have over 12,500 trees.

An example the NOAH Youth points to is a 4,980-foot stretch of Maverick Street near the airport to Maverick Square. The problem at that location is that there are only 17 trees, or 9-percent of the possible 199 trees that could potentially line the street.

The youth said trees naturally absorb pollution and could reduce urban noise by 6 to 15 decibels.

The NOAH Youth plan to increase tree coverage in Eastie to 30 percent thus doubling the current tree canopy coverage.

MassDOT announces overnight Route 1A closures

By John Lynds

Starting on Sunday, Feb.9, there will be intermittent overnight road closures on both the northbound and southbound sides of Route 1A in East Boston.

MassDOT made the announcement Monday and said the closures are scheduled to take place over the next four weeks during the overnight hours of 11:59 p.m. through 5 a.m. During those four weeks the closures will take place on Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

“The closures are necessary to allow crews to remove existing overhead guide sign structures and install new sign structures along Route 1A at several locations,” said MassDOT in a statement. “The work will require the closure of both northbound and southbound directions intermittently for 15 minutes at a time.”

MassDOT said traffic will be released after the 15 minutes, then once traffic clears, another 15-minute roadway closure will begin. This work will continue until all overhead guide sign structures have been installed.

“Appropriate signage, law enforcement details, and advanced message boards will be in place to guide drivers through the work area,” continued the statement. “Drivers who are traveling through the area should expect delays, reduce speed, and use caution.”

All scheduled work is weather dependent and may be impacted due to an emergency.

MassDOT said more information on traffic conditions and roadwork schedules travelers are encouraged to Dial 511 and select a route to hear real-time conditions. Travelers can also visit www.mass511.com, a website which provides real-time traffic and incident advisory information, and allows users to subscribe to text and email alerts for traffic conditions. Residents can also follow MassDOT on Twitter @MassDOT to receive regular updates on road and traffic conditions.

velopment. We are pro-growth—smart and equitable growth,” said Iván Espinoza-Madrigal, Executive Director of Lawyers for Civil Rights. “The BPDA was well aware that a significant percentage of East Boston residents speak primarily Spanish or Arabic. By failing to hire interpreters versed in the language of planning or zoning, or to translate key documents, the BPDA is effectively excluding immigrant residents of East Boston from the development process. Under well-settled federal law, this exclusion constitutes national origin discrimination.”

If approved, the project will create an entirely new neighborhood in the heart of Eastie, a historically working-class community with a significant non-English speaking population.

“We have been shocked by the BPDA’s half-hearted attempts to fulfill their obligations under federal law,” said Lisa Owens, Executive Director of City Life/Vida Urbana. “Spanish-speaking residents and their families have turned out for public meetings expecting to be able to hear the developer’s presentations, but the language access has been anemic at best. How are community members supposed to make their affordable housing needs known and participate in local planning if those processes are set up to exclude them?”

However, Thomas O’Brien, Founding Partner and Managing Director of HYM Investment Group who is developing Suffolk Downs, shot back against the accusations.

“Inclusion guides are not only for our vision for Suffolk Downs, but for the entire mission of the HYM Investment Group,” said O’Brien. “To us, access and inclusion are more than words—we have built a company that values diversity of ideas and people. Through private investment, we build sustainable communities that provide jobs, affordable housing and improve the quality of life for current and future residents alike.”

O’Brien said over the course of the last two years, in partnership with the BPDA and Revere city officials, HYM has gone above and beyond the typical public planning process to ensure that planning for the future of Suffolk Downs is open and accessible to all.

“We have hosted over 450 meetings, including Spanish-language meetings and meetings offering Spanish-language translators, East Boston and Revere community group meetings, meetings with elected officials and their staff, and numerous smaller groups and even one-on-one meetings with neighbors in order to hear and incorporate community feedback,” said O’Brien. “We have posted project documents and presentations in English and in Spanish on our project website, and all pages on our full redevelopment website are translated into Spanish. We have done interviews on Spanish-language radio outlets and advertised in local Spanish-language newspapers. To say that the Suffolk Downs planning process has not been an inclusive and conscious one, guided by the community, is contrary to our company’s vision and values.”

HAVE WE TURNED A CORNER?

For the first time since 2014, life expectancy in the United States has risen after four years of decline, according to a report released this past Thursday by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control and Prevention.

Overall life expectancy rose to 78.7 years in 2018, a slight increase from 2017, when life expectancy stood at 78.6 years.

Despite the increase, life expectancy in the U.S. only stands at where it did in 2010. In other words, we've had a decade of stagnation in our country's life expectancy, the only Western nation to have no gain in this ultimate measure of national health.

Worse than that however, is this statistic: Life expectancy in the U.S. has fallen behind even poor nations, such as Portugal, Costa Rica, Cuba, and Slovenia, all of whom trailed far behind us in the 1990s.

Many factors have contributed to the recent national decline in life expectancy, most notably the opioid crisis, suicides, and alcohol abuse. These are what experts refer to as "deaths of despair," a statistic that has risen dramatically among the American white male population of all ages.

So here's one question: If it is true that we are still amidst the longest economic recovery of all time, why have America's "deaths of despair" reached an all-time high?

In our view, one obvious answer is this: The economic gains of the past decade have accrued only to the very wealthy, which in turn has resulted in many Americans falling out of the middle class and others not being able to get there.

Consider that the national minimum wage in the U.S. presently is a paltry $7.25. And just how paltry is it? If the increase in the minimum wage had kept pace with the increase in the cost of living for the past 50 years (the minimum wage in 1968 was $1.60), the minimum wage today would be about $22.00. If you do the math, the lowest-paid workers in the U.S. should be making at least $800 per week; instead, they are making only about $300 per week.

However, the working poor are not the only ones who have been left out of our nation's supposed economic growth. The median household income in the U.S. in 1968 was $7,700. If that figure had kept pace with the cost of living, the median income today would be more than $90,000. However, median household income in the U.S. in 2019 was just $63,000, far below where it should be.

So now ponder this thought: If things have remained bleak for many of our fellow Americans even during the longest economic expansion on record, what will happen when the next recession hits?

The bottom line in America in 2020 simply is this: The very wealthy are getting much wealthier, while everybody else is getting poorer, with the costs of housing, health care, nursing home care for seniors, and a college education increasingly eluding the grasp of the rapidly-sinking American middle-class.

The end result of this economic dislocation can be seen in our national health statistics that show an increase in "deaths of despair" and an overall decline in our national life expectancy.

The stark reality of America in 2020 comes down to this: Americans today are living shorter -- and unhappier -- lives.

LETTER to the Editor

RANTS ARE IN

Dear Editor,
Our Congresswomen of color was taken aback, when accused of a rant. Rant is not a curse of a slur; it's loud and extravagant. But our R.I.N.O. Governor patronizingly apologized.

Rant is in. Simply turn on any morning talk show between 8 a.m. and noon, you'll hear a plethora of rants! Any of the sports T.V. shows, they rant ad nauseum, and radio talk shows are just as bad. I think our Congresswomen knows that a rant is. Having aligned herself with the cabal of four, they rant excessively. Our Congresswomen has had more T.V. time in one year than her predecessor in his career. Some of these appearances were rants. Not to worry, "Rants are in!"

Sincerely,

Peter A. Gravallesse

NATIONAL BURN AWARENESS WEEK FEB. 2-8

GUEST OP-ED

Black history is more than a month. Join our year-round celebration.

By Mayor Martin J. Walsh

February is Black History Month and, in Boston, we have a full series of events planned to celebrate the achievements of Black Bostonians-- the women and men, seniors and students, veterans and clergy, business owners and activists who have been at the heart of our city's progress and success since the beginning.

Honoring this history and progress is something we must do every day, all year round. That's why Boston is helping to lead a national movement to recognize that Black history is #MoreThanAMonth. This year, Black History Month kicks off a year-round celebration, in partnership with Boston's Black community, that we are calling a Year of Black Excellence. Black Excellence events will reach all ages and offer a range of activities including arts, sports, history, culture, job resources, and community programming.

Black History Month began on Feb. 3 at City Hall with a Black Heritage Kickoff Celebration. It continues with events like the Carter G. Woodson Basketball Tournament, the Dream Chasers Call for Artists, our Age Strong Black Heritage Celebration for seniors, the third Annual Fashionscape and Arts of Boston, our 4th Annual African American Veterans Brunch, and many more. The remainder of our Year of Black Excellence will be anchored by a series of signature events, in partnership with community members and leading Boston institutions.

In July, Boston will host the national NAACP convention. Being named the host city for this national event was a great honor. We saw right away what an opportunity it would be to not only celebrate our city's progress, but also to catalyze a future of Black achievement that pushes us ever closer to Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s dream of equality, justice, and harmony. We are working closely with the community to host the greatest NAACP convention ever held. This event will be a milestone in Boston's history and a focus of the national conversation around social justice and economic equity.

Ultimately, real change is what it's all about. That's why our Year of Black Excellence also coincides with major new initiatives and investments we are making in affordable housing, equity in education, access to transportation, and environmental justice. We will show that when we work to empower everyone and increase equity across our neighborhoods, our city becomes a better place for all -- and we can lead the nation forward as well.

We are being bold in Boston. We have made progress, but there is much work still to be done. We are inspired by the history of individual accomplishment and community progress that Black Bostonians have achieved, often against tremendous odds.

In January, we began the year by remembering the legacy of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr. He led the country to greater equality and justice, but the realization of his dream is not complete. His vision continues to inspire more progress every day. That's ultimately what our Year of Black Excellence is all about. I invite you to join us.

If you'd like to learn more, visit boston.gov/black-excellence.

Martin J. Walsh is the Mayor of Boston.

GUEST OP-ED

Oh, the woe of losing things kids lose gloves, but what about adults? This winter I purchased new gloves and vowed to pay attention and not lose one. Within two weeks, I had an orphan glove. Did the mate jump out of my pocket and join the hand circus? I threw a party for a lost glove reunion, but no luck.

Memory Loss Related to Emotional Problems

"Emotional problems, such as stress, anxiety, or depression, can make a person more forgetful and can be mistaken for dementia. For instance, someone who has recently retired or who is coping with the death of a spouse, relative, or friend may feel sad, lonely, worried, or bored. Trying to deal with these life changes leaves some people feeling confused or forgetful," according to article by the National Institute on Aging.

Memory problems can occur from trying to juggle too many balls in the air; not enough sleep from burning the candle at both end; and runaway stress. Some drugs list memory loss as a side effect.

Age-Related Changes in Memory

"Forgetfulness can be a normal part of aging. As people get older, changes occur in all parts of the body, including the brain. As a result, some people may notice that it takes longer to learn new things, they don't remember information as well as they did, or they lose things like their glasses. These usually are signs of mild forgetfulness, not serious memory problems, like Alzheimer's disease." www.nia.nih.gov

What's Normal

Absentmindedness occurs when you aren't paying close attention to the activity at hand. Occasionally forgetting where you placed things. Forgetting facts over time. Like computers, our brains need to purge old data to make room for new. A "tip of the tongue" memory slip that you remember later. Utilizing reminders to help you remember. Despite memory lapses, if your personality and mood remain the same, it's a good indicator that it's probably not something more serious. That's according to Helena Chang Chui, MD, a neurologist at Keck Medicine of USC.

I lose my car in parking lots, often. Is misplacing your cell phone, purse, or keys part of your daily routine? Do you put special things in special places to not forget, and then forget? The land of the lost has recently claimed a pair of my favorite glasses.

My solutions: Wear mismatched socks on my hands and outsmart the Sock Fairy and the Glove Grinch. Handcuff car keys to my wrist. And buy an old lady eyeglass chain or strap.

Harborkeepers holds emergency preparedness workshop

By John Lynds

Are you ready for a disaster, natural or otherwise? Some people living in East Boston might say yes while a vast majority might say no.

Last week Harborkeepers Director Magdalena La Battaglia and Harborkeepers Heather O'Brien held a workshop for mothers at East Boston Headstart on Condor Street to start thinking of how to prepare for a disaster.

"We (Heather O'Brien and I) are prep nerds," said La Battaglia, who is a self proclaimed expert at building emergency kits. "Every family should have an emergency kit ready. It is something I suggest you build little by little but give yourself a timeline that in two months I'll have my kit ready."

La Battaglia said Hurricane Sandy back in 2012 showed the world the need to be ready for a natural or unnatural disaster.

"Building these kits are important for the safety and well being of your family," said O'Brien. "You have to think of all different scenarios. If there's no water, I'm going to need access to fresh water. If the power is gone, I'm not going to be able to go to the ATM so I'm going to need cash on hand. If the electricity is gone, I'm going to need a flashlight. These are some of things you have to start thinking about to protect you and your families."

Both La Battaglia and O'Brien said no one can predict when a disaster will strike, but being prepared can help ease the inconveniences of losing electricity, water and the other conveniences we usually take for granted.

"Things like flashlights, extra batteries, food, water, cash are all things you have to consider if you are going to be on your own during a disaster," said O'Brien. "Think about it, if you don't have water for an extended period of time, how are you going to keep your family clean, and hygienic until water is restored? These emergency kits should be filled with items like disinfectant wipes in order to keep you and your family clean and hygienic during an emergency. What if there's no food and grocery stores are shut down for days? High protein and calorie-rich snacks like energy bars are a good and cheap way to feed your families during an emergency."

La Battaglia and O'Brien also said these emergency kits, once built, should be placed in a safe spot near a door in case the emergency requires evacuation.

"A good place near the front door is ideal so you can grab and go," said La Battaglia.

The event also included a presentation from Eastie District Fire Chief Chris Sloan on the importance of having fire extinguishers in every household.

"A lot of the houses in Eastie are old and when a fire gets into the walls of these homes, it gets bad, but fire extinguishers can put out quite a bit of fire," said Sloan.

Sloan said residents should look for a multi-use extinguisher that can handle not only wood, paper and plastic fires, but fires caused by liquids like cooking grease, as well as electrical fires.

"One of the most important things with extinguishers is placement. It is not good enough to just have one you want to have it placed in an ideal spot," said Sloan.

Eastie District Fire Chief Chris Sloan talks about the importance of having fire extinguishers in every household.

Sloan said a good spot is by a door.

"A lot of people put them next to their stoves," said Sloan. "But now you have a grease fire and that extinguishers is behind the flames. The best place to put them is by a door so you can back away from the fire, get the extinguisher and there's a clear pathway behind you to escape."

daily by Cunard's Executive Chef Anthony Pino.

Last Thursday the Boys & Girls Club held a community open house to introduce club members, families and supporters to the new kitchen. Chef Pino was on hand cooking up a storm and giving everyone a taste of what can be expected at the club each day.

"It was great to have our families and friends come by and sample Anthony Pino's delicious pasta dinners," said Triant. "We're happy to welcome Anthony (Pino) back as the club's chef. Anthony, the executive chef at Cunard Tavern, was a Club kid and staff member while attending Savio Prep and Johnson & Wales University. He's brought his amazing talent back home and our kids are the winners."

Assisting Chef Pino in the kitchen last week were Brother Bob Metell and Auray Pereira.

Pino said he will go to the club each day before heading to his regular gig at the Cunard at 4 p.m. Pino will prepare all the food for the day and Salesian staff will simply use the new kitchen equipment provided by the SFF to reheat and serve the meals once the club is open.

"Looks like I picked up a second job making healthy meals for kids at the Boys and Girls Club," said Pino. "I grew up going to and working at the Salesian in high school and college. It's pretty cool being back in the building a few hours a day and seeing the smiles on the kids faces again."

Pino said the meals, like the ones he prepared the other night, will be hot, fresh and a big improvement to some of the food options in the past.

The SFF has been responsible for revamping school kitchens at East Boston High School, Samuel Adams Elementary School, Dante Alighieri Montessori School, Curtis Guild Elementary School, Donald McKay K-8 School, Hugh R. O'Donnell Elementary School, James Otis Elementary School, Mario

The new kitchen will allow the Salesian to pivot from reheated food to freshly prepared meals for club kids.

The event allowed club kids, families and supporters to come down and try the new food from the new kitchen.

These schools were part of the successful 'My Way Cafe' pilot program that utilizes a Hub and Spoke kitchen model. The Hub and Spoke model utilizes schools with already-constructed in-service kitchens to prep food for nearby schools that do not have such kitchens. In addition, schools that did not have in-service kitchens were retrofitted with hybrid-model kitchens to cook and serve food on-site for students.

A SHORT STORY ABOUT A HARD CURVE. AND A HOME RUN.

Carol Truncale's story isn't just about how she prevailed through a severe childhood case of scoliosis, or curvature of the spine. It's about what she did when she grew up.

She became a nurse—a decision inspired by the support and dedication she received from her own medical team during her long years of treatment and successful recovery.

Carol Truncale's story leaves us with two of the most contagious messages we know: don't give up, and remember to give back. If Carol's story inspires just one more person to make a difference, then its telling here has been well worth while.

EBCCS CELEBRATES CATHOLIC SCHOOLS WEEK WITH A SCIENCE FAIR

Photos & Story by Marianne Salza

East Boston Central Catholic School (EBCCS) celebrated Catholic Schools Week with a Science Fair on January 29. Seventh, and eighth-grade students presented 19 projects to classmates and families, identifying iron found in cereal, experimenting with carbon dioxide activation, and explaining how density is the quantity of mass.

"Today we are using lemon and zinc-covered nails to make electricity," explained seventh-grader, Kauan Nascimento, who partnered with his friend, Sham Mohammed. "When we stick the nails into the juice of the lemon it flows through the circuits and creates electricity from penny to nail. You could power an LED lightbulb under 30 watts, or charge a phone."

Eighth-graders, Jose Argueta and Angel Gonzalez, and their project, "Cloud in a Bottle."

Kayleigh O'Connor and Mariana Hincapie speaking about their project, "What is Density?" to a visitor.

Chase Whiteknact, eighth grade, demonstrating his project (with Nico Maraio), "Hot Ice."

Seventh-graders, Kimberly Ayala and Devani Taylor, who used Pop Rocks candy to inflate a balloon by shaking a bottle of Coca Cola to active the carbon dioxide.

Eighth-grader, Nayeli Orellana, demonstrating her project with Kenia Ayala, "DIY Marble Paper."

Seventh-graders, Dante Minacapilli and Rodrigo Guizar, demonstrating how iron is found in Wheaties and Special K cereals.

Seventh-graders, Victoria Barriga and Natasha Jimenez, explaining their project, "Bounce n' Bubbles," and eighth graders, Giana Ribeiro and Wilma Braid, demonstrating their project, "Dissecting Behind the Seams."

City Councilor Flaherty announces his 2020 committee assignments

Committee assignments for the two-year Boston City Council term beginning in 2020 have been announced, and Boston City Councilor At-Large Michael F. Flaherty has been assigned as the Chair of the Community Preservation Act (CPA) Committee for the second consecutive term. Councilor Flaherty has also been assigned as Vice-Chair on the Committee on Government Operations, the Committee on PILOT Reform, and the Committee on Rules and Administration.

"I am looking forward to my leadership roles on these critically important committees and to helping move Boston forward with effective legislation and constituent services," said Councilor Flaherty. "I am particularly excited about my role on the PILOT reform committee, working with my colleagues and our City's tax exempt institutions to ensure that the benefits they are reaping from our great City are being returned equitably so we may all continue to prosper."

Councilor Flaherty has been a longtime champion of the CPA since its adoption by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts in 2000, and was a key figure in its adoption by the City of Boston in 2016. In his role as CPA Committee chair, Councilor Flaherty will be central in the allocation of funds generated through the CPA, and their ultimate disbursement to affordable housing, open space, and historical preservation projects across the city.

Councilor Flaherty said "The success of the Community Preservation Act in the City of Boston is something I take great pride in, having spearheaded efforts to support it for almost 20 years now. I am honored to continue serving in my role as Chairman of this important committee and working to ensure that deserving projects in every neighborhood of our City continue to receive this important funding."

Mayor Walsh recently released his recommendations for what will be the third round of CPA funding—a total of roughly $24 million, spread across 40 projects around the City. The Mayor recommended a majority of the funds be directed towards affordable housing projects, in direct response to the affordable housing crisis that Boston currently faces. With this round of funding, the City will have granted approximately $67 million for projects in every neighborhood. The Mayor's recommendations for this round of funding have been approved by the Community Preservation Committee, and they will now be submitted to the Boston City Council's CPA Committee for final approval in the coming weeks.

Councilor Flaherty will now begin the public hearing process to determine the merits of each proposed project, ensuring that they meet all of the appropriate criteria and maximize public benefit. The Councilor welcomes input from all community partners and constituents throughout this process. Any concerned party is welcome to contact his office at 617-635-4205 or by email at michael.flaherty@boston.gov. A formal announcement of the CPA Committee hearing on this matter will follow once the hearing has been scheduled.

ish-language town hall hosted the same day in Lawrence, were about showing up for people in Massachusetts who are all too often left out of the political process.

“Since day one of this campaign we have been committed to showing up for every voter of Massachusetts and meeting people where they are,” Kennedy said. “At a time when too many people feel ignored and cut out of our political process, we are building as inclusive, transparent and accessible of a grassroots operation as we can. With the growing base of Latinx voters across our commonwealth and country — and their immense contributions to every corner of American life — these town halls are an essential early part of our campaign, to directly hear the concerns, challenges, hopes and lived experience of every resident.”

After the town hall, Kennedy joined State Sen. Joe Boncore and other local elected officials for a Meet and Greet at Pazzo on Porter. Sen. Boncore, who represents East Boston, Cambridge, Revere and Winthrop, formally endorsed Kennedy in his bid for Senate in front of a restaurant full of supporters.

The two Spanish-language town halls are the first of their kind in the history of Massachusetts Senate races, and they conclude the first stage of Kennedy's 2020 community town hall tour. To date, Kennedy has completed 11 town halls over the last month, including: Worcester, Malden, Lowell, Barnstable, Salem, Dedham, Amherst, Springfield, Framingham, Leominster, Randolph.

Veronica Robles welcomes Congressman Joe Kennedy III and his son, James, to the Spanish-language town hall Saturday at the Veronica Robles Cultural Center.
